Russ Intent Stumps U. S. Intelligence

Agencies' Info Only Speculative; Zhukov Ouster Was Surprise

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—Getting information on the intentions, plans and secret moves of Russia's rulers stood out today as the No. 1 problem of U. S. intelligence agencies.

Finding out what Russia can do is much easier than determining what she intends to do, the experts agree.

"The evidence is that President Eisenhower and his top officials would like to know a great deal more about what goes on in the Kremlin than they do. But the best information they can get is 'highly speculative.'"

That, at least, was the phrase used by Eisenhower yesterday when he was asked at a news conference whether he was satisfied with intelligence estimates he had received on the status of Marshal Georgi Zhukov in Soviet ruling circles. He said some weeks ago that Zhukov's position had appeared to be greatly strengthened.

Zhukov Ouster Surprise

The removal of Zhukov from his job as defense minister last Saturday caught the U. S. government by surprise and without any very good guess as to what was going on. Only after Soviet Communist party boss Khrushchev spoke Tuesday of finding a new assignment for Zhukov it became clear to authorities here that Zhukov had been downgraded.

They still do not really know why, although the guessing is that he was removed by Khrushchev in some kind of power struggle, possibly over political control of the Red Army.

Eisenhower said that "any effort to penetrate the Soviet mind, or at least the mind of the Kremlin to determine their reasons for doing anything, is highly speculative, and that is all it is."

Sharp Distinction

Intelligence experts make a sharp distinction between facts bearing on the capability of another country to do something and those bearing on its plans or intentions. Thus before the Korean War started in 1950, the U. S. government knew that the Communists in North Korea had the capability of launching a strong attack on South Korea but they had no solid information on Communist intentions and the actual attack caught Washington by surprise. The situation was about the same several months later when the Red Chinese forces joined combat.

There have been times in the past when intelligence successfully penetrated into the inner circle of a hostile government. Early in World War II the Western Powers had such good information not only on Nazi Germany's military capabilities but on its plans and intentions that they warned Russia flatly of Hitler's impending assault.

Political intelligence of this high order is the optimum that intelligence agencies seek, the experts say. Precisely how well the United States is doing in this respect in regard to Russia is a matter known only to a few people here—apart from such comments as that which the President made yesterday.

"Silent Service"

Allen W. Dulles, director of the Central Intelligence Agency, described himself in a speech in San Francisco last month as the head of "the silent service," whose results cannot be advertised.

Nobel Physics Award Goes To Chinese-Born Scientists

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Two young Chinese-born nuclear scientists working in America won the 1957 Nobel prize in physics today for removing important obstacles to the understanding of the functions of the atom and the universe.

The joint winners of the $12,000 award are Dr. Chen Ning Yang, 34-year-old professor of physics at the Institute for Advanced Study, Princeton, N. J., and Dr. Tsung Dao Lee, 30, Columbia University professor of physics who is on leave and also at the Princeton Institute.

The two first met at a university in Kunming, China, in the early 1940s, but did not begin working together until 1948, after

Britain's Rail Workers Slap Wage Control

Government Spurns Subsidizing Of Cost Of Living Increases

LONDON (AP)—The leader of 400,000 British railwaymen sounded an angry new challenge today to the Conservative government's wage hold-down.

The government won a 307-258 endorsement in the House of Commons of its refusal to grant wage increases demanded to meet the higher cost of living. The vote was on party lines.

"The government has created a crisis atmosphere," said James Campbell, head of the National Union of Railwaymen. "It must be held responsible if a crisis develops."

Campbell said his union is still bent on obtaining an unspecified, but substantial, wage increase for its members. The Macmillan government had warned the British Transport Commission, which runs the state-owned lines, that it will not subsidize pay increases.

A test of the government's determination might result in a costly nationwide strike which would pinch off much of Britain's crucial export trade. Success by the railwaymen might open the doors for raises all across the strained British economy.

Ending a two-day debate in Commons, Chancellor of the Exchequer Peter Thorneycroft, rejected the government's refusal to help with pay raises.

"The government does not intend to find any more cash than they have already found or undertaken to find," he declared.

Elvis Cuts Down Show Gyrations

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Elvis Presley declined comment on the taping down of his second performance in Pan Pacific Auditorium, but an aide said:

"It looked like his shoes were bolted to the floor."

Police sent a vice squad detail to view his second show Tuesday night after the first one of the previous night brought complaints from parents that the singer's gyrations bordered on the obscene.

Treat Results In Auto Wash

PEQUANNOCK, N. J. (AP)—Two teen-age boys inadvertently turned a trick into a treat yesterday when their plan for Halloween mischief ended up all wet.

Julia Lyons, principal of the Pompton Plains Grammar School, spotted the boys seeping 10 cars belonging to teachers. Miss Lyons called the boys' mothers.

As a result, the boys had to add water and elbow grease to the soap and do a thorough job of washing the cars.

Teamsters' Chiefs Study Future Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—Teamsters Union chiefs gathered today to decide a course in view of the AFL-CIO suspension order and clean-up ultimatum plus the continuing court challenge to Teamsters leadership.

There was no advance indication of what Teamsters president-elect James R. Hoffa and his union's executive board might do in face of the union's mounting problems.

But there were reports considering a new union convention to combat the opposition to Hoffa and the circumstances of his election earlier this month as successor to retiring Teamsters President Dave Beck.

Teamsters attorneys prepared to go before the U. S. Court of Appeals this morning in an effort to upset the injunction by which Federal Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Letts has prevented the 44-year-old Hoffa from taking over the Teamsters' helm.

Letts found that Hoffa and other Teamsters bosses had promoted or tolerated the seating of improperly chosen delegates at the recent Teamsters convention at Miami Beach, Fla., to assure the election of Hoffa.

'Whatnik' Found On Road Proved Work Of Joker

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Now about that "whatnik" with the Russian lettering.

It's a fakenik, comrades—a good old American practical joke.

The whatnik, three feet long with fins and a spinner, was found Monday alongside a mountain highway by a motorist. He turned the gadget over to authorities.

Lettering on the whatnik's side was translated as Russian words for "Russian government." However, the Air Force checked the object and reported yesterday that the whatnik's parts were American as the corner war surplus store. In fact, that's where most of them probably came from, a spokesman said.

He added that the whatnik apparently was planted by a practical joker who had read too many space satellite stories.

Mennen Firm Official Bares Extortion Plot

Says Dio Henchman Requested $15,000 For Ending Walkout

WASHINGTON (INS)—A vice president of the Mennen Company said today a henchman of New York gangster John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi attempted in 1951 to extort $15,000 from his firm as the price for ending a strike.

George Mennen, denying all charges of union-busting made against his company, said he rejected the bribery proposal of Sam Zackman, a New Yorker with a criminal record who then was president of Local 102, AFL, United Automobile Workers.

Mennen, who bears a boy-like, boyish resemblance to his cousin, Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams, told Senate racketeers probes Dio later told him Zackman had been ousted from the local for dishonesty.

The company executive testified that his firm then signed a contract with Dio, but that employees initiated a successful move to jettison the labor organization two years later when Dio's long criminal record became known to them.

The Mennen company's manufacturing boss at the Morristown, N. J., plant, denied that the move to "de-authorize" Dio's proposal started with management.

He told the committee his firm hired Nathan Shefferman's labor relations associates, an organization previously identified with union-busting, to straighten out Mennen personnel problems.

Limit Has Been Reached—Longevity Study Shows Inherited Traits Factor

CLEVELAND (AP)—Human beings have about reached the limit on how long they can expect to live.

This conclusion was reported today by Dr. Morris Rockstein, associate professor of physiology at New York University, to the opening session of the 10th annual meeting of the Gerontological Society. Gerontology is the scientific study of old age.

To back up his conclusion he cited studies of animals and mortality data which shows that—like the color of their eyes, hair and skin—human beings inherit most of the conditions which decide how long they'll live.

Since man has no control over these inherited conditions, he said,

Statements Abroad Hint Fight Eases

Only Plan With Any Chance Would Name 'Dag' As Mediator

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A move grew in the United Nations today to seek some compromise approach to dissipate the tension between Turkey and Syria. Rival resolutions already submitted to the Assembly appeared doomed to failure.

Statements by Russian and Syrian spokesmen abroad meanwhile indicated that the crisis over Russian military aid to Syria and Turkish troop reinforcements along the Turkish-Syrian border was shimmering down. The United States and Turkey have contended all along that Russia whipped up the tension to win the Arabs to the Soviet side.

Many U. N. delegates believe the only plan likely to get Assembly approval would be a watered-down proposal citing Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold as a possible go-between and promising some kind of investigation.

Might Issue Statement

Hammarskjold told reporters he might issue a statement today, depending on the "state of developments."

An Assembly session scheduled for today was postponed until 10:30 a.m. tomorrow.

It seemed unlikely that the 82-nation Assembly would give the needed two-thirds majority to Syria's proposal to send a fact-finding commission to investigate the border situation, or to the seven-nation Western resolution expressing confidence that Hammarskjold would mediate the dispute.

Phony Warnings

Western diplomats expressed the view that Russia's anti-Syrian warnings that the United States and Turkey are about to touch off a war are so phony that to appoint an inquiry commission would give them unwarranted dignity.

Syria, on the other hand, was reported to have told Hammarskjold she would not approve his appointment as mediator on grounds it would mean the Assembly was shirking its duty in favor of the secretary general.

India Delegate V. K. Krishna Menon has suggested that both Syria and Turkey agree on a fact-finding process to help settle their differences and use Hammarskjold's good offices.

Flu Reports Tapering Off

WASHINGTON (INS)—The U. S. Health Service reported today that there was "no marked change" during the last week in the number of cases of Asian flu.

The weekly tabulation indicated the nationwide epidemic reached a plateau two weeks ago at the level of about two and one-half million cases.

Deaths from influenza and pneumonia were reported to have risen 28 per cent in the nation's large cities. The estimated death rate was two and a half times that of the same week in 1956.

The Health Service said absenteeism at schools increased in some states while declining in others.

The service said there were new reports that some flu cases had been complicated by encephalitis, popularly known as sleeping sickness.

Limit Has Been Reached

CLEVELAND (AP)—Human beings have about reached the limit on how long they can expect to live.

Ike, Top Leaders Talk Defense Plan

WASHINGTON (INS)—President Eisenhower turned the regular weekly meeting of the National Security Council today into a full-fledged conference with top military and other administration leaders.

The makeup of the meeting indicated that it covered the financial and economic aspects of the defense program, with accent on the speeded-up missile projects.

More than 25 persons, including both the civilian and military heads of the various branches of the armed forces, sat in on the expanded council session. The White House, as usual, declined to say what the top-secret conference covered.

Nixon, Dulles on Hand
Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles attended the enlarged session.

Among other non-military officials sitting in on the council were Budget Director Percival Brundage, Atomic Energy Chairman Lewis Strauss, Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson, and Disarmament Specialist Harold E. Stassen.

Mr. Eisenhower said yesterday that defense spending in the current fiscal year will exceed the earlier 38 billion dollar ceiling, probably by more than $400,000,000.

The effect that mounting military expenditures will have on the new budget presumably figured in today's conference. The fact that Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine chiefs were present indicated the meeting probably got down to specifics, with discussion of the share of defense funds that will go to each of the services.

The administration has been reappraising the whole defense spending picture in the light of Russia's satellite and guided missile progress.

The arrival marked formal delivery to the Strategic Air Command of the new weapon, the first air-to-ground missile assigned to a combat wing.

This was the first public showing of the Bell Aircraft Co. GAM-63 Rascal in position, ready for launching.

The Air Force announced earlier that the Rascal, capable of carrying an atomic or hydrogen warhead, had scored direct hits in four firing tests within the past five weeks.

The missile was fired long range—the exact distance a secret but it was described as miles—from a B47 over a New Mexico test range at a ground target with a radius of only 1,500 feet.

The Rascal was put into operation in connection with the opening of the week-long annual SAC bombing, navigation and reconnaissance competition.

Turncoat Stated To Be Released; Will Be Minister

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Edward Dickinson, Korean War turncoat who is scheduled for release Nov. 23 from the U. S. Disciplinary Barracks at Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., plans to enter the ministry.

The Rev. W. S. Monneyham of Nashville, executive secretary of the National Assn. of Free Will Baptists, said last night Dickinson plans to apply for admission to the Free Will Baptist Bible College here.

Dickinson, 27, was convicted in 1954 of collaborating with the enemy and for informing on a fellow American who planned escape. His 10-year sentence subsequently was reduced on appeal and further reduced by good conduct at the disciplinary barracks.

GI Counsel To Air Final Plea Nov. 5

Prosecution Urges Five-Year Sentence; Verdict Due Nov. 20

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—The prosecution rested its case against GI William S. Girard today and asked a Japanese court to sentence him to prison for five years.

The 22-year-old Illinois soldier's lawyers will make their final plea Nov. 5. A verdict is expected by Nov. 20.

Girard is on trial for the fatal shooting of Mrs. Naka Sakai, a Japanese scavenging for scrap brass, on a military firing range last Jan. 30. He is charged with inflicting "bodily injury resulting in death," the equivalent of manslaughter. The maximum penalty is 15 years.

Might Suspend Sentence

There has been considerable speculation that presiding Judge Yuzo Kawachi, if he convicted the soldier, would suspend sentence and allow him to return to the United States with the Japanese girl he married last summer.

Suspension of sentences of up to three years are usual in Japan for first offenders or where the prosecution case is weak.

Summing up, Associate Prosecutor Kakichi Sugimoto conceded that Girard did not intend to kill Mrs. Sakai when he fired a blank shell from his grenade launcher while guarding equipment on the firing range.

But Sugimoto asserted Girard "had at least the intention to hit a part of her body, half for a joke," and therefore he should bear the responsibility of her death.

Never Repented Killing

Sugimoto also claimed the GI has never repented the killing, an important factor in Oriental justice regardless of blame.

Girard has said many times he is sorry Mrs. Sakai was killed but insists it was an accident arising out of his guard duty.

Sugimoto termed Girard's American accuser, Specialist J.C. Victor Nickel of Inkster, Mich., "the most reliable in general" of all the witnesses and repeated Nickel's claim that Girard asked him to lie about the killing and to help him cover it up.

Sugimoto reviewed testimony that Girard threw out empty shells to lure the brass pickers—which the defendant denied—and said had he not done this, Mrs. Sakai would not have been killed.

"The prosecutor also stated: Although Girard was told to guard a machinegun and other equipment, there was no danger Mrs. Sakai would steal them or be needed only to 'keep an eye' on them, not shoot."

Girard was the only soldier who fired at the horde of Japanese trespassers on the firing range, showing that he exceeded his duty.

Girard's Japanese lawyer, Ituro Hayashi, said the key point in his argument would be that the killing could not be called a crime because Girard was "performing official guard duty... no different from that of a policeman trying to catch a burglar."

Bandit Robs Blood Bank

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—A "cultured" gunman, who was careful not to point his weapon at a lady attendant, last night robbed the community blood bank of four pints of blood.

"I won't hurt you my dear," the robber told Billievelyn Miller when he entered the Spokane blood bank. "Just don't be frightened. Do what I tell you."

She said the man, who appeared "very calm and sweet," held a small pistol in his hand when he approached the counter where she was typing blood samples.

Soviet Eyes Larger Earth Moon; U. S. Tests Missile

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia reportedly plans to blast a large earth satellite into orbit Nov. 7, the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

The Communist Daily Worker in London said in a Moscow dispatch that "conditions may make it impossible to launch it on that particular day, but the plan is there."

The United States, meanwhile, conducted another missile test at Cape Canaveral, Fla., late last night. The device was described as Jupiter A, believed to be an improved version of the Redstone missile which has a range of 200 miles.

Radio Moscow said last night that Sputnik's rocket section will come crashing to earth soon, but that the sphere probably will last several more weeks.

At Cambridge, Mass., Dr. Fred Whipple of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory reached about the same conclusions. He said the rocket may fall to earth in the first two weeks of December, and that Sputnik itself probably will make its death plunge late last month or the first of the year.

Moscow said, meanwhile, that the rocket completed, at 10 p.m. EST last night, its 35th trip around the earth. Sputnik was 1 1/2 laps behind.

News Parley Shows Shock Over Satellite

Silly Paradise Shown In Ike Explanation Of Nuclear Cooperation

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—No one mentioned Sputnik by name but the shadow of the Russian satellite across President Eisenhower's news conference yesterday was just as real as if it had been revolving around his head.

The questions and answers reflected the shock of Sputnik on both the American people and the Eisenhower administration—a shock into an acute realization of Russian progress in missiles, science and scientific brains.

Nothing showed better the kind of silly paradise in which this country has been living than Eisenhower's own words in explaining his desire to promote American-Russian cooperation in nuclear development.

Can't Share Secrets
Under laws now on the books—they've been there for years—this country can't share its nuclear secrets with its allies although cooperation with them might help put the allies ahead of Russia.

These laws apparently were meant to prevent the secrets from falling into Russian hands. The Russians have been doing all right by themselves, Eisenhower pointed out.

"Most of our security laws . . . were written at a time when we thought we had a monopoly. Now we are getting in the point where we know that a great many of our secrets are known to the enemy, but they are still secret from our friends, which seems rather an anomalous situation."

As a result of Sputnik, Eisenhower will go to Paris in December for an Allied summit meeting to talk more cooperation on defense among the Allies. The British spurred him into that idea.

Real Shock
They had a real shock from Sputnik. Since the Russians were able to build a missile to shoot Sputnik into outer space, they should be able to build missiles that could be showered on Britain from Moscow.

That this country needs more scientists is hardly a new idea, since it's been talked about for years. But it was emphasized anew by Eisenhower who said his scientific advisers want the schools to produce more scientists.

Just how long the shock of Sputnik will affect the American people will depend in large part on what kind of leadership Eisenhower shows in keeping the public aware of the need for scientific development, especially in missiles and outer space progress.

This was brought home to him by one questioner who quoted an interview with Dr. Vannevar Bush. The World War II scientific director said he isn't optimistic about our overtaking the Russians in the outer space field unless the public is alerted, and that the alerting is the President's job. Eisenhower in effect said he was aware of that but indicated it's a pretty complicated problem.

TO TRACK AMERICAN SATELLITE — Dr. Karl G. Henize, left, senior astronomer in charge of photographic tracking of satellites for the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, Cambridge, Mass., talks over the tracking program with Walter Lang who will be in charge of a U. The first model has already been used to track the Russian satellite at Pasadena, Calif.

Twist Of Fate:

Bookkeeper's Escape With Funds Foiled

NEW YORK (AP)—A bus line executive met his bookkeeper at Newark, N. J., airport yesterday, with both holding tickets for the same flight to Miami. The chance meeting resulted in the bookkeeper being arrested on a grand larceny charge.

Police gave this account: Sidney Engelhardt, president of Gray Line Bus Tours, Inc., discovered a $6,000 shortage when his bookkeeper for three years, Raymond Farrell, 33, of Brooklyn, failed to report to work last Monday.

Engelhardt notified police but went ahead with plans for a Florida vacation. When he met Farrell boarding a plane Engelhardt called airport police.

Non-Strikers Carry Arms; Area Jittery

Explosion Occurs In Area Of Steel Factory In Texas

DAINGERFIELD, Tex. (AP)—Non-strikers carried arms to and from the Lone Star Steel Co. plant near here today after an explosion shook a nearby area last night. The blast was the latest incident in a series of outbreaks of violence.

The 40-day-old strike has left the area jittery and a small army of peace officers is keeping a tenuous peace.

"I'm toting a pistol," said James Landers, 24, a 127-pound machine operator savagely beaten yesterday by six burly men he identified as strikers. Arrests were expected momentarily.

"We never had a gun checked before this started," said L. D. Webster of Dallas, vice president of Lone Star Steel, as he admired an ancient cap and ball pistol bearing five notches. The 14-inch weapon was checked at the gate by a plant worker.

In the past week, there have been four bombings, four incidents in which rifles or shotguns were fired into homes and uncounted telephone threats against non-strikers.

Ed Ball of Houston, staff representative for the United Steelworkers Union, insisted the violence was the work of individuals.

The plant employed some 3,600 persons before the walkout started Sept. 21. The union says 2,300 men still are out.

The dispute centers over the company's policy of filling job vacancies, a topic company officials said is not covered by the contract.

Thousands Of Spooks Ghost-Chasers Assert Live Ones Still On Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—Halloween means pumpkins, goblins, witches, and parties to children all over the nation, but ghost chasers claim that thousands of real, live spooks are on the job throughout the world. The National Geographic Society says the Tower of London is high on the list of traditionally haunted places. A sentry reportedly died of shock after meeting a phantom bear—probably a stray from the tower's one-time royal menagerie.

Henry VIII's second wife, Anne Boleyn, is perhaps the tower's most pitiful ghost. According to the rhyme: "With her head tucked underneath her arm, 'She walks the bloody tower!'"

Another of Henry's wives who joined Anne on the chopping block likes to raise the roof at Hampton Court Palace. Tradition says at night Catherine Howard runs up and down the "haunted gallery," yelling her pretty head off.

One of London's most famous ghosts is a theater-going specter in a cloak and tricornered hat. He's haunted Drury Lane Theatre since 1873.

Witnesses swear this spook likes "Oklahoma!" so much that he saw it at least three times. He also attended the opening of "South Pacific."

The British Society for Psychical Research keeps track, statistically, of the coming and going of spirits. More than 150 cases are said to be haunted in 5:14:50 a.m. and the second at 5:20:21 P.M.

U. S., Poland Negotiations On Aid Start

Further Assistance To Gomulka Seen; Given $95 Million

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Poland start new economic talks today aimed at providing further American assistance to the Communist regime of Premier Wladyslaw Gomulka.

The negotiation at the State Department is an extension of an agreement signed last June 7 providing 35 million dollars in U. S. economic aid to Poland.

This arrangement came after President Eisenhower offered help in getting the Gomulka regime started on its policy of greater independence from Moscow domination.

Under the June agreement, Poland got surplus farm goods and mining machinery.

The 35 million dollar total included a 30 million dollar Export-Import Bank loan and 55 million dollars in a grant swapping surplus farm foods for Polish currency.

In addition, an agreement was made to try to unfreeze two million dollars in Polish assets in America as well as to satisfy American property claims in Poland.

Departments Bidding On Math Genius

Private Shult
Assigned To Army
Chemical Center

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — There may be a decision today on which of the department heads at the Army Chemical Center here gets Pvt. Ernest Shult of Fairbury, Ill. The scientists at this hush-hush installation are bidding for the services of the 24-year-old soldier as if he were a mathematical genius, and that's just what his former college professor says he is.

Shult attended Southern Illinois University before being drafted last April and was associated with Dr. Carl C. Lindegren.

Last week, Dr. Lindegren criticized the Army for assigning Shult to a clerk-typist's job at Fort Lee, Va., and called Shult "the outstanding mathematical genius I have encountered in 30 years of medical research."

Shult was reassigned here, and yesterday they began a series of interviews with scientists eager to have him work in their departments. An Edgewood spokesman said:

"A good-natured fight has developed among the various division heads. The minute they heard he was coming here, they all asked for a chance to talk with him and see if they couldn't sell their programs to him."

Capt. Walter C. Norris, public information officer, said the Army's only interest was to get Pvt. Shult assigned "where he will make the greatest contribution. He won't be able to pick his job but, commensurate with his qualifications, he will have a hand in the ultimate assignment."

Norris also said there was nothing in Shult's record to indicate to the Army, as Shult later explained, that he was within one semester hour of receiving his bachelor's degree at the time of his induction.

Pvt. Shult, whose father died several years ago, worked his way through the university as a janitor and later as a laboratory assistant. He has had three research papers published in scientific journals, and was Dr. Lindegren's chief mathematical assistant.

The dark-haired soldier, who stands 5-2½ and weighs 148, was asked if he felt his training was being wasted before his reassignment.

"You can resign yourself to anything," he said. "Everything was done by the book. I didn't have a degree, or a year's experience."

CWA, Phone Firm Agree On New Pact

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Communications Workers of America and the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. signed a new contract last night calling for $2 to $3 weekly in wage increases.

The action is subject to ratification and the 10 CWA locals in Maryland will vote on the contract individually between now and Nov. 25.

The CWA represents about 5,000 clerical, installation and repair employees throughout Maryland with the exception of the Washington area.

A joint company-union statement announced agreement on contract. A company spokesman said he did not know the length of the contract or other details and State CWA Director William K. Edwards could not be reached.

The CWA members involved now make $42 to $129 a week. The old contract had expired at midnight Monday.

Union advisors to its members during negotiating session indicated the stumbling blocks in the way of a settlement were the matters of wages and certain benefits.

Early yesterday, the union membership was advised that the company was still trying to "short change you on wage increases" and "refusing any contract improvements."

They were told the company withdrew its "retrogressive" attempt to take away longstanding sick benefits.

Public Water Supply Heads Hold Meeting

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than 200 public water supply engineers, operators and executives gathered here today for the 36th annual conference of the Chesapeake Section of the American Water Works Assn.

The two-day meeting of representatives from Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia will discuss recent studies of the Potomac River basin, bacteriological pollution of Chesapeake Bay and proposed water resources legislation.

The Chesapeake section is one of 30 throughout the United States, Canada and Cuba who are members of the American Water Works Assn.

Among speakers participating in technical sessions will be Byron Bird, chief of the engineering division of the Washington District Corps of Engineers; Hugh Hunter, chief engineer for Maryland's Public Service Commission, and Mark D. Hollis, assistant surgeon general and chief engineer of the U. S. Public Health Service.

Others include Luther B. Behan, an agricultural economist with the Washington District Corps of Engineers; Dr. George M. Worrell, dean and director of the University of Delaware's School of Agriculture, and Dr. John C. Geyer, professor of sanitary engineering and water resources at Johns Hopkins University.

City's Bond Issue Has Low Interest Rate

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — A $150,000 municipal bond issue was awarded by city officials last night at an unexpectedly low interest rate. The lowest of five bids, by the Baltimore investment firm of Alexander Brown and Son, offered an interest rate of 3.30 per cent. It was generally expected the rate would range between 3.60 and 3.75.

Bonding Amy Warren Buckler said the bid was the best given any municipality in Maryland during the past year. City Clerk Carroll Dail said Cambridge is one of three Maryland cities with an AA credit rating.

The bonds will finance an extension of the sewer system, improvements to the sewage treatment plant, and the purchase of new fire trucks.

Time Will Prove

SELDOM HAS Moscow ever sprung so puzzling a surprise on the Western world as with the removal of Marshal Zhukov as Soviet defense minister. It is not that we are unaccustomed to the sudden downgrading of top Kremlin officials. Such power plays are of course commonplace. But this time Western diplomats are not quite able to figure whether Zhukov has really been downgraded or simply freed for other, perhaps higher, duties. The consensus of the largely baffled experts initially seems to favor the theory of his downgrading, nevertheless.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of his removal from the key defense post was tantamount to the point of omitting any reference to future work. Dispatched on a three-week tour of Albania and Yugoslavia with full publicity and ceremony, Zhukov returned to the barest mention in the Soviet press. Some specialists believe that even if Zhukov were to get a nominally higher post, such as the premiership now held by Nikolai Bulganin, this would not truly represent an advance. It is argued that his job at the head of the Soviet armed forces was closer to the heart of Kremlin power. If Zhukov has indeed been downgraded, Western thinking on the internal Kremlin power struggle clearly needs revising.

WHEN RED PARTY boss Nikita Khrushchev bounced Molotov, Malenkov and Kaganovich last spring, Zhukov was credited with a prime assist. Many hinted he was the power behind Khrushchev, and might one day take over. To presume he has been demoted is to suggest his power was exaggerated by the West. Possibly some other army leader such as Marshal Konev is the true master of the military. Possibly one in the military is as strong as was thought, and Khrushchev has the strength to work his will in every zone of Soviet power. Mystery shrouds much of the meaning of this new move. But there is no mystery about the final purpose of these successive shocks and shake-ups within Russia. It is the making of Stalin's successor, the restoration of his one-man rule. Only time will show where the mantle will fall.

Mob Psychology

WHAT SORT of people make up mobs, as in Little Rock? Many will reply that it is the ignorant, the unemployed and perhaps unemployable, the shiftless, and the drunken, led on by unscrupulous leaders. Though this description is often applicable, it does not give the whole story. Mobs, psychologists have learned, are not merely collections of individuals. There is a special mob psychology, pervading the whole group and infecting the individual members. Often it leads them to actions of which they are later ashamed. Thus in 1835 William Lloyd Garrison, the foremost of all abolitionists, was mobbed in Boston. The crowd contained many well dressed men known as substantial citizens possessing considerable property. Obviously these were carried out of themselves by their membership in a mob. If mobs are not restrained, there is no telling what they will do. More than one French revolution was brought about by the Paris mob. Hitler and Mussolini were put in power largely because they had formed mobs into disciplined followers. If unpopular citizens can be assaulted and pillaged by a mob, before long the same fate may be visited on almost any person.

Bulls Vs. Bears

THE STOCK MARKET, after the longest advance in history, has been trending downward for some time. Recently it went into a couple of very sharp tailspins, with losses in stock values running into the several billions. Outside observers watching this activity admitted to some puzzlement. They know that numerous factors in the business picture give cause for concern. Yet the general level of the economy remains amazingly high, and the market's bearish outlook seemed extreme. Evidently market operators themselves at last began to think maybe the gloom was getting too thick. In a rocket-like upward spurt that hasn't been matched since November, 1929, the market shot back to higher levels and in a single day added $7.2 billion to the worth of listed stocks. Many an American wishes he could make as good a recovery any Monday morning.

Oil Greatest Source Of American Wealth

WASHINGTON — The latest catalogue compiled by Fortune Magazine of our very rich — 78 elect whose fortunes range from a meager $75 million to a billion — aroused the usual interest always found in government in such analyses.

This is not only because of the natural human curiosity about the rich, and the fact that most of them have been here at one time or another in government, society or in the witness chairs of Congressional investigations, but because of their impact on government and its policies.

We find, for example, an exercise in contrasts in Fortune's inclusion in the $100-$200 million category of William Keck, president of Superior Oil Company of Los Angeles, one of whose agents offered the $2,500 cash campaign contribution that was rejected by Senator Francis Case in the furor over the natural gas bill.

FORTUNE's survey revealed: That it is still possible to amass great riches despite government regulation of business and our income tax laws. Indeed, our income tax laws assist this process through loopholes which clever tax lawyers exploit for their wealthy clients.

That oil, either as the basis of inherited fortunes or as the root of new ones, is the greatest single source of modern American wealth. To this Fortune finding, we might add that this helps to explain the powerful influence of oil experts in Washington, and in both political parties.

This power, bolstered by lavish campaign contributions, has enabled big oil to keep on the statute books the devices by which it escapes its just burden of taxation. First and foremost of these is the 27½ percent depletion allowance, a flat deduction before taxes are computed.

ANYBODY who dares to try to reduce these privileges to a reasonable figure — and only a few have dared — immediately is flattered by the oil steamroller in Congress that is managed skillfully by the two Texas Democrats who sit in the top seats of power — Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate leader Lyndon B. Johnson.

The wealth of the single occupant of Fortune magazine's $700 million-to-one billion category is based on oil, starting with his father's amazingly successful operations in Oklahoma. This is Jea Paul Getty, a California expatriate living in Paris. He explained how ready cash made it possible for him to buy up all sorts of enterprises during periods of depression.

That, as a matter of fact, was the way the Mellon fortune was built, beginning with the Depression of 1879 when the father of the late Andrew W. Mellon of Pittsburgh, Secretary of the Treasury in the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover Republican Administrations of the 1920s, laid the basis upon which Andrew Mellon built so successfully.

Four Mellons are included in Fortune's $400 to $700 category — his son, Paul, an whose Virginia estate Queen Elizabeth recently was entertained; his daughter, Ailsa Mellon Bruce; his nephew, Richard K. Mellon, and Sarah Mellon Seafair.

FAMILIAR to Washingtonians of the New Deal era, was Andrew Mellon to its Republican predecessors, was Joseph P. Kennedy, the Wall Street and Boston financier who was the first chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

His wealth is rated between $200 and $400 million by Fortune. His son, Democratic Senator John Kennedy of Massachusetts, is a leading aspirant for the 1960 Democratic Presidential nomination.

In its survey Fortune says that multimillionaires agreed on one particular — the "oil of them try to appreciate capital rather than increase income." This, it said, helps them in their taxes, adding that "the very rich typically carry 25 to 30 percent of their fortune in tax-empt securities and some go as high as 75 percent."

IN HIS BOOK, "The Power Elite," published last year, Professor C. Wright Mills of Columbia University explains the various tax loopholes used by the rich to reduce their contributions to their government.

He places the capital gains tax first, followed by the oil depletion allowance, then lists many others, with the observation that "for virtually every law taxing big money, there is a way those with big money can avoid it or minimize it." The Fortune study affirms one of his conclusions, to wit:

"Economically and socially, the very rich have not declined. After the crash and the New Deal, the very rich have had to operate with skilled, legal technicians (both in and out of government) whose services are essential in the fields of taxes and government regulations, corporate reorganization and merger, war contracts and public relations."

Glancing Sideways

NEW YORK — As long as New York exists, I shall love it. I shall love it for a lot of things, such as its being strung together like a clutch of Chinese firecrackers which, when you light one, the whole bunch goes off in a delightful series of midjet explosions.

I shall love it for Central Park and April rains and many other corners and bits, but mostly I shall love it so long as it contains taxicab drivers who can quote Oliver Goldsmith and long lines from "The Deserted Village."

Thomas Parker can. He is from Dublin, has wet his uncertain feet in the Liffey which flows there and has passed many an hour at the gates of Trinity College studying inch by inch the statue of Goldsmith, his hero.

NEW YORK is a place where you can stand on a corner in the worst part of Hell's Kitchen, flag a cab and get in, and there is Thomas Parker, resident of Manhattan since 1909, and he says: "It's a grand afternoon, it is," before you can tell him where you want to go.

So you tell him and he says: "We'll do it more amiably by way of 48th Street. Last night it was the Queen of that England which had the Waldorf traffic tied in bleak knots and now it's himself, Mr. Eisenhower, who is doing it. Fifth Street to the eastward will be the purest murder."

SO WE RIDE leisurely through the mid-afternoon haze of sun, smoke and lowering clouds here and there, and he says: "I had a Cockney in the cab recently. He said, 'You are from Ireland' and I said, 'I am,' and he said, 'It's a poor country,' so I said, 'In money, yes, but rich in beauty, tradition and history and we were making it when your kind wore their pelts and not much else."

"So I quoted him from Goldsmith, that part that tells what it is like to be poor in the money but rich in the pride and the blood. 'Heaven embrace, the lovely man, for he was a true poet.'"

WE GOT TO Sixth Avenue and I said, "Thomas, will you have a cup?" He said he would. So he parked the cab and turned away the meter flag and we had a cup in Marc Rebuben's Absinthe House, with the backgammon players glaring at each other and David Wayne, the actor staring into space because he had just bought a new comedy for himself and that is a time for a man to stare into space.

Now, David wanted to meet Thomas and Thomas bowed and said: "It's an honor, for truth it is. This is a great man for the plays and the acting," and we had another cup, and Thomas said: "I'll say it to you both, because the Queen was here less than 24 hours ago and she is a nice and pretty young woman with a hard role for herself as fate, I'm that sorry for her."

"What I'll say is that Oliver Goldsmith put it into 24 or maybe it is 32 lines in a poem. I did not count. I only learned these lovely lines without counting them. But in 1770, when this was the Colonies, Goldsmith foretold the fate of the Empire exactly and how it would happen — and this is it."

AND HE recited, with an organ of a voice, the Goldsmith lines as they foretold what would happen to the Empire. You have read the history and the fate into the lines. Goldsmith didn't label the places and times. But it's there, as clear as glass.

"And now it has happened," said Thomas. "You can see it?"

David Wayne said, yes, he could see it.

Thomas looked around at the concentrations of the backgammon players and he said: "We will play a small game. We will ask any four of these people in this snug where the game came from and they will not know. They will only know that it is old."

SO WE ASKED them separately, four of them. Three said it was Persian and one said he wasn't sure, but he thought it came from the Euphrates Valley. And Thomas had a long cackle and said: "You see, they don't. It's Egyptian. Polo is Persian and the chess is Persian, I think. I know about the polo. Not about the chess. But backgammon is Cairo, and they play it hot and steady in the open cafes there night and day and for wins."

He went back to his taxi and drove away in the twilight. David Wayne went away with his problems of comedy. I sat and watched backgammon.

And I can't tell you now if it is Egyptian or Persian or good Hindu. It's a game that is very old, that's all I know for certain.

But the setting of the weak sun brought it to me. Afternoons like this rekindle affection for New York.

Small Ham Would Be Better

WASHINGTON — There is an old Federal axiom, dating back to the free freeters of Harry Truman's times, which says that a bureaucrat should weigh his gift hams.

If these come to 12 pounds or under, they're mere remembrances given to him because he's a good guy and he may keep them. If they weigh 13 pounds, however, they are bribes and he should send 'em back.

This is a simple rule that works pretty well, but how to apply it to the stripped-down Oldsmobile sedan of Mrs. Victor Purse, I don't rightly know. She'll probably never enjoy riding in it again.

YOU MAY HAVE read about Mrs. Purse's motor car, a 1937 model presented to her last June by Ibn Saud, the free-spending King of Saudi Arabia.

When this whiskey monarch visited America a while back, he spread good will with a lavish hand. Any official who shook the hand of the King got by the next mail a gold-handled dagger.

If he was a medium big shot, this weapon had a few emeralds and rubies studded in it. If he were a head man, like the President of the United States, he received a full-sized sword with a handle crusted in diamonds.

When the King got a good meal in a restaurant, he usually sent to the cook with his compliments a gold wrist watch. Such timepieces de luxe he handed out to bellhops, cops, and waiters. When the news got around, nobody ever got such super service as did Ibn Saud.

I NEVER heard of any of these people sending their watches back to the King because they feared he was trying to bribe them, but then, of course, none of them worked for the Federal government.

On the King's tours around America went young Victor Purse, the deputy chief of protocol from the State Department. The protocol boys are the ones who wear the striped pants and worry about who sits where at official dinners.

They claim this is important, competent to handle national defense and foreign policy.

To meet this challenge in the next three years, it will be necessary for the Administration to encourage discoveries in broader fields of knowledge that won't just duplicate or better something the Russians have done.

This will include such things as controlling the energy of the hydrogen bomb for peaceful uses, development of solar power, atomic aircraft, the use of "atomic dynamite" to change the course of rivers or blast out new harbors.

and it doubtless is, because diplomats are touchy people, easily insulted. I've known a few protocol people twinking for other governments (than the United States, of course) who struck me as being stuffy types.

PURSE apparently was non-stuffy. He was fun for a King to be around. Ibn Saud soon was calling him Vic. The King slipped him a dagger straight off and invited him to ride on the royal plane back to Saudi Arabia. This Vic did, as a matter of duty.

That's when the King said he wanted to do something nice for Vic's family. When Vic got home the Saudi embassy had an order to provide Mrs. Purse with an Oldsmobile. This has not been described, except for the fact that it cost $3,000.

At that price it must have been a little one with only two doors and hardly any pushbuttons. Mrs. Purse, in any event, paid $282 in taxes, which the King seemed to have forgotten, while her husband said he checked with the lawyers at the State Department about whether such a gift was according to protocol.

He reported that the legal eagles agreed it wouldn't do to insult a King by giving him back his Oldsmobile.

SO NOW VIC's been bounced from his job and given other work in the department. He's said to be thinking about resigning, in favor of going into private business, while Ibn Saud is reported to be upset.

That's the trouble. Nobody told the King about U. S. government protocol. If he'd only known, he could have given Vic a small ham, studded not with cloves, but sapphires.

Reporter's Notebook

NEW YORK — The question a New Yorker gets asked most often is, "Why, in heaven's name, do you want to live here?" Since most New Yorkers seem to come from out of town, they sometimes ask themselves the same question.

They have to agree that most of the stock criticisms made by visitors are true. "It's just too crowded, noisy and dirty. Everybody is in a hurry to get nowhere. It makes me tired just to watch the pace at which people go here. They don't even have time to be polite."

Yet few visitors, if truthful, can deny they have a wonderful time while they are here. A British visitor, Patrick McRoberts summed up the city generously in 1773: "The inhabitants are in general brisk and lively, kind to strangers, dress very gay; the fair sex are in general handsome, and said to be very obliging."

RALPH WALDO Emerson, down on a slumming trip from cultured New England, described New York crisply as "a sucked orange."

Thomas Jefferson in 1823 wrote that "New York, like London, seems to be a cloaca or sewer of all the depravities of human nature."

In 1872 the English novelist Anthony Trollope wrote, "Speaking of New York as a traveler, I have two faults to find with it. In the first place, there is nothing to see; and, in the second place, there is no mode of getting about to see anything."

It is still true that traffic in Manhattan is so bad it is impossible to get anywhere in a hurry. But it is no longer true there is nothing to see here.

There is everything to see here now. In the mid-20th century New York City reigns as the earth's greatest metropolis, a cultural and financial mecca for all the world.

If you have a talent of any kind, a product of almost any kind, here is your greatest show window and market place.

THE REASON most people come to live in New York is in the hope of making a bigger buck. And they generally do make a bigger buck here.

Even the smallest talent is rewarded higher here than in most other cities. This is a big-spending town, and it attracts free-wheelers.

Chicago, the nation's second city, is notoriously jealous of New York. But a New Yorker doesn't feel that way about Chicago. He just doesn't think of any other city being in the same league. To him, as Bugs Baer so aptly put it, any other place "is Bridgeport."

Although this attitude is maddening to citizens from other cities, the typical New Yorker is actually neither snug nor sophisticated. He is an easy victim for all kinds of con men, and seems to enjoy being conned.

"If there ever was an aviary overstocked with jays," wrote O. Henry, a Texan who made this town his own, "it is that Yaptown-on-the-Hudson called New York."

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON — The resignation of Herbert Brownell as Attorney General wasn't nearly as precipitous as it seemed. He wanted to retire weeks sooner, but his wife wouldn't let him.

The charming Mrs. Brownell had bought a new dress of a dress for the visit of Britain's royal couple and she didn't want its sweetness wasted on the deserted air—which is the kind of air they give "formers" here in Washington.

Had Mrs. Brownell been the wife of the "former" Attorney General when Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip came here, she would have enjoyed about the same front line prominence as the wife of the former lawn bowling champion. The whole world is cold on "formers," but Washington is deep freezing.

OUR PEOPLE ARE no more coldblooded nor headless than those in other American communities — I am told — but we feel we can't spare the emotional strain of being sorry for our "formers" because they accumulate too rapidly. By the end of every governmental year there's a new junkyard full.

This poses a perpetual problem in human relations for us. All the time we are fawning upon a temporary great we are wondering how soon we'll be able to give him the chill.

Many of us refuse to accept the indictment, but we are all guilty in some measure. Members of my craft are especially culpable, but we feel we are forced into it by circumstances. I can picture the avidity with which you would gobble up an interview here on how former Secretary of State Jimmy Byrnes feels about the Turkish-Syrian situation.

It seems only yesterday that we were hounding Senator Tom Connally of Texas all over the Capitol for his views on foreign relations. But when he became both a former Senator and former Chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee he couldn't have collected a crowd of two reporters, even to watch him charm a cobra.

I contend that this is as it should be; and the only reason I bring it up at all is that a former associate, who had helped me both pursue and avoid the Messrs. Byrnes and Connally, waited bitterly into his cups the other day that he isn't being wooed the way he was before he quit the newspaper business to edit a house organ for a trucking combine.

THE OTHER NIGHT I had an illuminating session with a former high official who had been one of the capital's most sought-after guests. He used to average three cocktail parties a night, and frequently spread his evening meal between two seated dinners. But overnight he lost both his job and his social appeal. He began dripping cynicism.

He dripped it all over me at our recent meeting. He railed against "fair weather friends." After a time he subsided, however, and said he was organizing a group to charter a private railroad car for the Army-Navy game. He asked if I had any suggestions as to whom he might invite.

I gave him the look of wide-eyed innocence, which many admirers find so disfiguring, and said:

"What about Herb Brownell?"

He stared at me aghast. "You must be out of your mind," he screamed at last. "By that time, even the GOP elephant won't remember him."

Governor Praises Supreme Court For Ability To Change With Times

BALTIMORE (AP) — Gov. McKeldin today praised the Supreme Court as a "final arbiter with a heart as well as a mind . . . and with the ability to see the changes that time has made."

McKeldin came to the defense of the Supreme Court, the subject of frequent criticism for some recent decisions, at a luncheon of the Federal Bar Assn. and Kiwanis Club honoring Justice William J. Brennan Jr.

The governor said it was reassuring to be face to face with the highest court and "to recognize its humanity, its human feeling and its human intelligence."

"It is good to know that no machine or similar device of automatic calculation is handing down the vital rulings of our laws," he said.

McKeldin said each state in the nation must have its rights, but to see the changes that time has made — an arbiter capable of seeing the ultimate purpose of the whole. "When the ultimate purpose of the whole goes beyond the mere picturesqueness and arbitrariness of a moral code — when it infringes on the rights of individuals or groups — then the aggrieved must turn for justice to a higher authority," he said.

in the maintenance of a second class citizenship within its boundaries, then it must be asked of the courts: Can this be? Can the principles of human freedom on which this nation was founded vary with the climatic zones?"

"Then there must be a final arbiter with a heart as well as a mind — an arbiter with the ability to see the changes that time has made — an arbiter capable of seeing the ultimate purpose of the whole — an arbiter capable of combining picturesqueness and arbitrariness with faith in humanity's progress. "All this we have in the Supreme Court of the United States — a blessing from the wisdom of our fathers — a boon to the nation as a whole," McKeldin said.

Travel To Mars May Be Made In Short Hops

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE,

Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—Space ferries and taxis will likely be the first steps in human travel to Mars, Venus and elsewhere in space.

They will make short hops—riding up only about as high as Sputnik did.

Their job will be to build and supply space platforms or hotels circling steadily around the earth. Up there the space ships will be built and launched to carry humans on historic explorations of space.

This is the view of most experts on rocketry and space travel. They feel it will be far simpler and cheaper to launch the actual space cruisers from a kind of stepladder in the sky than from the earth itself. The reason involves some hard facts about rockets and gravity.

A well-supplied space cruiser in which humans could live safely and comfortably for weeks or months could weigh many dozens of tons.

Getting that weight off the ground all in one piece takes enormous rocket power. It has to start from scratch, against the full gravity pull of the earth.

Just to send up a 20-pound baby moon in Project Vanguard calls for a 22,000-pound rocket, half a ton of rocket for each pound of payload to be hung in the sky.

Numerous experts have proposed designs and plans for the space hotels and cruisers.

First one, then another, then another rocket is shot into an orbit 500 miles or higher above the earth. They are timed or controlled to be bunched.

Then the first human astronauts go up. Protected by special space suits, they work in space to join the rockets together. They use, perhaps, little rocket guns or reaction pistols to control their movements. Firing the gun gives them a backward push, in the direction they want to go as they hang in space.

Freighter rockets carry up pre-fabricated materials. Construction crews soar up in space taxis, creating safe, comfortable living quarters with all the necessities of life. Some designs call for pin-wheel-shaped space platforms.

More cargo ships carry up the materials to build the space cruiser to Mars, and its fuel. Trained crews rocket up to man the space cruiser.

The space hotel is traveling around the world in an orbit at five miles per second. Now the space cruiser is launched, its rockets thrusting it forward to reach a speed of seven miles per second. With that speed, it can break away from the earth's gravity and begin its space journey.

The space cruiser isn't streamlined. It doesn't have to be, for there's no air or friction to slow it down.

And it's easier to get the cruiser going fast high in space than from the ground. This astounds people who think a rocket has to have air to push against. It doesn't in fact, any air is a handicap, a resistance like trying to get an automobile going if its nose is against a wooden fence.

Rockets go because they burn fuels and create compressed gas inside the rocket. The nose end is closed. Gas molecules are pressing against this closed end.

Against this action, there is reaction as gas molecules rush out the narrow, opened back end. The high speed ejection of this mass produces a thrust in the opposite direction.

The escaping gas doesn't need air or anything else to push against. And the rocket moves faster if it doesn't have to fight wind resistance ahead of it.

Launched from a space platform, it has less force of earthly gravity to overcome also.

Once a rocket is aimed for Mars it will coast without further power.

Byrd Claims NAACP Has Much Power

SOUTH BOSTON, Va. (AP)—The NAACP, under sponsorship of the federal government, has grown so powerful, U. S. Senator Harry F. Byrd declared here last night, that in Washington, D. C., where the Negroes committed 89 per cent of major crimes last year, it was granted the privilege of questioning individual policemen as to how they obtained their evidence.

The senior senator from Virginia, speaking at a Fifth District Democratic state ticket, asserted this authority was granted the NAACP by the district commissioners, appointed by the President, but was protested vigorously by Washington's Chief of Police Robert V. Murray. He was joined in his protest by 2,000 members of the policemen's association.

"This," said Senator Byrd, "would give the NAACP a privilege that a United States senator does not have. It is equivalent to permitting the private questioning of FBI agents without the authority of J. Edgar Hoover."

Forbes Vs. Meyner Political Showcase of '57

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Staff Correspondent

TRENTON, N. J. — (NEA) — New Jersey, the one big political showcase of 1957, displays a driving young Republican, Malcolm S. Forbes, trying with coiled spring energy to pull Democratic Gov. Robert B. Meyner off the "good governor" pedestal most New Jersey folk have helped put him on since 1953.

The country's political leaders watch with sharp eye. If the handsome 49-year-old Meyner holds off the challenger, he'll be high on the pile of fresh-sawed presidential timber for 1960. Democrats will lay the result back to back with William Proxmire's summertime Senate victory in Wisconsin as proof of a trend rolling their way.

A Forbes triumph would be vastly heartening to Republicans everywhere. It could catapult him into national prominence, and give a special boost to the GOP's Eisenhower wing. It accomplished with substantial help from the state's 120,000 voting Negroes, it may constitute the first real harbinger of Negro reaction to the events at Little Rock.

The experts agree Forbes won't find it easy to yank Meyner off his perch. For three years a favorable press statewide has polished the "good governor" image. He has few enemies and has made the few mistakes. Carefully, he has wooed both labor and business. He stands high with the dominant independent vote.

Capping at 10:15, Meyner now has at his side a young wife, a business magazine publisher, and a record of fighting the regulars, he's a rebel with money. He loves the smell of combat. Starting from flat on his back, in August he launched the 1957 version of his favored "doorbell campaigning," which won him a state senate seat in 1951. The final tally shows that in about five weeks he pressed 11,000 doorbells in nearly 550 communities, and shook some 100,000 hands.

His doorbell finger weary, he campaigns more conventionally in these closing weeks. But he still rides the red, white and blue milk delivery truck which has established a new political fashion this year (Meyner's entourage sports a bread truck).

Forbes stands in the stepwell at the truck door, waving steadily. Now and then he hollers: "Spread the word, won't you?"

A natural do-it-yourself, he pops off the truck at stoplights to pass out pamphlets and operates the sound equipment blaring the slogans and songs.

Princeton-trained, 38 years old, with thick, shiny hair, black-rimmed glasses and a lean face that creases into an easy grin, Forbes is trying to build an image room and onto the hustings. These last few weeks the talk is the newlyweds at Morven, the governor's mansion.

His five attractive children, four boys and a girl with ages 10 to 2, don't hurt when they trot to Sunday school in colorful kilts, the seemingly normal GOP color-

(rear) are Mrs. Malcolm Forbes, GOP Candidate Forbes, Democratic Gov. Robert Meyner and Mrs. Meyner; (front) three of five Forbes children, Malcolm, Jr., Christopher and Robert.

Nor does the billboard picture of the whole tribe, with wife Bertie, spread across the state.

The challenger hangs one big drum—taxes and spending. He calls Meyner the state's biggest spender and forecasts heavier taxes if he's reelected. He's also tried to make hay out of New Jersey's water shortage and an alleged "cover-up" by Meyner and his cabinet of a private insurance scandal.

He gets in sly digs about "mac-tails at Morven," and says the governor will have to do more than "smile, shake hands and clink tea cups."

To all this Meyner responds with some heat. The two combatants have met in a series of red face to red face debates, with considerable mutual skull rapping the result.

Meyner's reply to the spending-taxing argument is that Forbes himself voted in the legislature for all the expenditures the governor lays out.

To the charge of neglect of duty in the insurance affair, he answers: "Vicious partisanship."

As for the slants fired at his social doings he has replied by taking Helen out of the drawing room and onto the hustings. These last few weeks the talk is the newlyweds at Morven, the governor's mansion.

ably so, but they don't answer the question how far. Hopeful Republicans count on the seemingly normal GOP coloration of New Jersey (though figures cast doubt on this at the governor level). They expect to do well in populous Bergen county, where four years ago gangster scandals cut their usual 40,000 to 60,000 margin to a limp 5,000.

They pray, too, that feuding in heavily Democratic Hudson county (Jersey City) may sharply slash Meyner's edge there, which passed 70,000 in 1953.

But the evidence indicates Meyner holding well in the New York City bedroom counties of Bergen and Essex (Newark). Both sides concede that Forbes must rip deeply into the independent vote there and elsewhere if he is to topple Meyner on November 6.

... classic elegance in its finest form

Here—in four incomparable new models—is the greatest Continental of them all.

As you would expect, the new Mark III has advanced new features: a retractable rear window, for example, in all models including the convertible.

It has uncommon luxury: exemplified by leathers imported from Bridge of Weir, Scotland. And in the Continental tradition, the engine is so smooth you can balance a coin on the hood.

And because this car is built in the newest, most modern automobile plant in the world, with the highest standards of craftsmanship, the Continental Mark III is now priced just slightly above the fine car field.

You're invited to inspect the new Continental Mark III.

Wall Street Hears...

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wall Street Hears: In the three years ending with 1959, Southern California Edison expects to increase plant investment by one-third billion. It took Social Edison 34 years to invest its first one-third billion. St. Regis Paper's fourth quarter should be the best of the year, bringing 1957 net to $2.50 a share on 8,157,035 shares presently outstanding vs. $3.15 in 1956 on the 6,933,990 shares out then. Abbott Laboratories sales this year should run to $108 million and earnings to $3.10 or better, or 30 cents above 1956 per share net on a sales gain of about $12 million.

Homestead Mining earnings may be "down a little" this year from the $2.09 earned before depletion in 1956. However, the $2 dividend paid in 1956 will again be distributed.

Additions to fidelity fund portfolio in September quarter include 27,000 shares Chrysler, 14,000 commercial Solvent, 8,000 Swift, 9,000 Ford. Holdings of Columbia Broadcasting A and B shares, Carrier, General Cable and Thompson Products were eliminated.

Market comment—Edmund W. Tabell of Watston & Co.: "Current investment policy should be one of liquidation of doubtful capital goods issues starting at current levels and continuing on strength..."

Chicken Mixture For Sandwich

Crunchy and rich, chicken salad sandwiches are favorite hunger-chasers. This "Chicken Salad Sandwich Filling" is particularly easy to make because it's seasoned with instant minced onion, and ready-to-use moisture-free onion you simply spoon from the container. Instant minced onion has a fresh-onion flavor that's perfect for sandwiches because it's never hot and bitter as raw onion sometimes is.

Chicken Salad Sandwich Filling

1 1/2 cups instant minced onion or 1 1/2 tablespoons finely chopped raw onion

1 tablespoon lime or lemon juice

1/4 cup finely chopped celery

1/4 cup chopped walnuts

1 pimiento, chopped

1/2 teaspoon salt

2 cups chopped, cooked chicken

1/4 cup mayonnaise

Measure onion into lime juice and let stand 5 minutes. Combine with all remaining ingredients. Spread between slices of plain or toasted bread. Makes filling for 6 to 8 sandwiches.

Parties for youngsters need a chore for mothers if they let school-age girls and boys in on the planning and encourage them to do some of the preparation. Kids love activity and they get a big thrill out of helping.

For an afternoon birthday party, hot cocoa and sandwiches, ice cream plus the birthday cake and cookies will be a spread. If you choose a simple drop-cookie recipe such as this one, your Junior Miss — with a slight assist — can bake them. This recipe makes four different sorts of cookies so party guests can take their choice.

Ingredients: For the basic dough — 4 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking soda, 1 teaspoon cream of tartar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup golden shortening, 2 cups light brown sugar (firmly packed), 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup milk; flavor extras listed under variations.

Method: Sift together the flour, baking soda, cream of tartar and salt several times. Cream shortening, brown sugar and vanilla; beat in eggs thoroughly, one at a time. Stir the sifted dry ingredients into the creamed mixture, alternately with the milk, until smooth. Pack dough down in bowl with a spatula so top is flat and even. Mark off into four parts with a knife. With a large spoon, put three of the parts into

Makes 6 to 8 dozen (2 inches in diameter) cookies.

Methodists Name Riggin To New Post

WASHINGTON — Dr. E. Cranston Riggin, a district superintendent in the Methodist church's Baltimore Conference, has been named executive secretary of the conference Board of Missions.

He takes over that post next Jan. 1 from Dr. Philip C. Edwards, who will go to Philadelphia to become director of the church's City Work Department in the Division of National Missions.

Church officials said Dr. Riggin will become executive secretary of the missions board on a part time basis in January, continuing as superintendent of the Baltimore South District until the annual conference in June.

Dr. Riggin, who heads the $300,000 Wesley Theological Seminary fund drive in the conference, is a native of Crisfield, Md.

He has served as minister at churches in Baltimore, Hancock, Pikesville and Annapolis.

Bone Up On Beef Grades, Market Specialist Advises

MARKET SPECIALIST Kay Nawn shows how to cut steaks from the top of a blade chuck roast. The rest can be used for hamburger, stewing beef or as a pot roast.

WASHINGTON—With prepackaged meat coming into prominence, the housewife is more or less on her own at the meat market. There's no longer a friendly butcher to advise her on selecting the family meat supply.

Knowing the appropriate grade and cut to select for a particular meat dish is the first step in meat planning, according to Kay Nawn, market specialist in the Livestock Branch, Department of Agriculture.

Miss Nawn travels all over the country talking to consumer groups on meat selection. She says if you hone up on the subject you will spend your meat dollar wisely and please the head of the house and the kids.

It's easy to distinguish different cuts of meat, she says, if you look at the federal grade stamp. This also tells you the cut. There are some 450 federal meat graders in all important meat marketing centers throughout the country. They judge meat for quality and then stamp a long purple ribbon on it so that even on a relatively small retail meat cut you should be able to see some portion of the marking.

To learn more about these federal grades, you can write to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., and ask for Leaflet 310, U. S. Grades for Beef. Single copies are free. The booklet is one of the 10 most popular among government publications.

The class of meat obtained from cattle varies with age. From birth until three months of age, cattle meat is classified as veal; from three months to one year the grade will stamp it calf.

After one year it's beef. Federal grades usually available to you are U. S. prime, U. S. choice, U. S. good, U. S. standard, U. S. commercial and U. S. utility.

"Knowing grades is very important, but knowing meat cuts is important, too," says Miss Nawn.

Pickle Juice For Dressing

Leftover pickle juice has too much good flavor to be dumped unthinkingly down the drain when the pickles are gone. Some of the dishes in which you use vinegar are even better when spiced pickle liquid is substituted.

Save the tangy juice for use in quick relishes such as sliced cucumber and onion rings or in preparing spiced beets.

Pickle juice also can be substituted for vinegar when making oil and vinegar dressing for a tossed green salad.

Steak Story

Your family and guests differ in the way they like their steak cooked? Then broil individual steaks, timing them for individual tastes.

Miss Bowen explains that the cast was chosen after a series of try-outs for the several roles. John Goss is directing the work of the property committee and Dotty Harper is serving as publicity chairman.

Carrot Chips

Tender crisp carrot chips cook in a jiffy and add interest appeal to any dinner dish. Wash and scrape carrots, then with a sharp knife or a vegetable peeler cut them on the diagonal into very thin slices. Soak in butter or margarine until just tender. Season with salt, pepper and onion salt and serve hot.

Donut Sundae And Cafe Au Lait Tops For A Teen-Age Party

Teen-agers should get a bang out of a new gooey sundae that they can make themselves—either for a pajama party or a pre-foot-ball party. This super-duper is made from plain doughnuts along with lots of other goodies.

Here's all it takes to make it. First of all, use a plain doughnut as the base of your sundae. Now put a scoop of coffee ice cream right in the center. Pour some piping hot Coffee Caramel Sauce over the whole concoction and sprinkle it generously with pecans. Sound good? Well, actually, it's the "living end"! A variation on the doughnut theme might be vanilla ice cream, hot fudge sauce and walnuts.

For a perfect go-with beverage, fill up your cups with Cafe au Lait, a fine half-n-half combination of steaming, fresh coffee and steaming milk, sweetened to taste. For style, add a cinnamon stick to each cup. This makes a terrific stirrer and, at the same time, lends a subtle spicy flavor to the Cafe au Lait. You can be sure that, whenever doughnut sundaes and Cafe au Lait are in the making, kids will have oodles of fun and good eating.

Coffee Caramel Sauce
1/2 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
1 cup sugar
1/2 cup light corn syrup
1/4 cup butter or margarine
Few grains salt
1/2 cup cream
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup strong coffee
Combine first 5 ingredients in saucepan. Cook, stirring, until sugar dissolves. Cook without stirring to 236° (soft ball stage). Cool slightly. Stir in cream, vanilla and coffee; mix well. Makes about 2 cups.

Tuna Fish And Sour Cream For Sandwich

Canned tuna fish and sour cream make a festive luncheon sandwich.

Drain one 6 1/2-ounce can chunk-style tuna. Combine tuna, 1/4 cup sour cream, 2 tablespoons mayonnaise, 1/2 cup chopped candied dill strips, 1/4 cup finely chopped onion and salt to taste.

Spread tuna mixture on buttered frankfurter rolls. Garnish with pimiento strips.

Chaney Firm Bid Accepted By Area Unit

The bid of the Chaney Transportation Company to move the office equipment in the land records office at the Court House from the main floor to the basement rooms set aside for the furnishings has been accepted by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The Chaney firm offered to do the moving and setting up of the equipment in the basement for $495. Other bidders were John Apple Transfer, $1,904; Bill Meders Transfer, $815; Meders Transfer, Inc., $644; and Bennett Transfer and Storage, $2,375.

New office equipment has been ordered at a cost of approximately $18,000 and will be installed in the main floor land records office in the near future. The state pays for the new equipment but the county will pay for the moving of the old equipment.

Meanwhile, the county has been notified that $14,267 will be allocated by the state as the county's share of liquor taxes.

Oregano Improves Chicken's Flavor

A little oregano does a lot for the flavor of fried chicken when included in the flour mixture used to coat the pieces of chicken.

Use 1/2 teaspoon crumbled whole oregano leaves to 1/2 cup flour.

Parfaits and mousses usually have the same base — whipped heavy cream.

Cucumber Sauce Goes With Fish

Sauce for the goose is not necessarily sauce for the gander — but here's a good fresh Cucumber Sauce that will keep both happy, because it wonderfully enhances any broiled fish.

This interesting sauce can be used ably on a different decoy each day, whether salmon, swordfish or white fish.

Peel a large cucumber. Cut lengthwise in quarters. Remove the seeds and grate the meat. Whip 1 cup thick sour cream, add 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, a couple of twists of the pepper mill and 1/2 teaspoon dill seeds, either fresh or dried. Fold in the grated cucumber. Chill and serve.

Beef, Pork Put On List As Shoppers' Best Buys

By The Associated Press

Housewives surveying special bargains offered by supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores this week will have a choice of beef or pork.

Beef accounted for 53 per cent of all red meat consumed in this country in 1956. Agriculture Department figures show. This week's top and bottom round steak, sirloin and porterhouse steaks and rib roast are being featured in some stores. Others are stressing pork, which accounted for 33 per cent of the 1956 total consumption with offerings of pork loins, pork roast, fresh ham and smoked ham.

Turkeys, still at bargain levels, are the No. 1 attraction in some stores. Others offer lamb leg or the increasingly popular lamb combination of chops and stew meat.

Shrimp prices are shrinking now that autumn catches in Louisiana waters are surpassing last year's haul. Fishermen reported shrimp were mysteriously absent from their usual haunts during most of the summer.

Vegetable counters offer a good variety of outstanding buys in areas where they're available from nearby fields, with such items as cabbage, onions, potatoes, cauliflower, bunched beets and carrots. Sweet potatoes from the Virginia-Maryland area also are a bargain item in most places.

Western pascal celery remains a good buy, although somewhat higher. Other good buys include Western topped carrots, cucumbers.

Cadets Unable To Play Alico Here Saturday

The wave of influenza has struck again at a local football schedule with coach Keith Payne of Allegheny High announcing at noon today that Frederick High team will be unable to play here Saturday night in their CVAL clash.

Coach Payne was contacted by Frederick coach Keith Motesworth who said that he has at least eight of his first-stringers sick with the flu and it would be impossible to play here Saturday. No date has been made for rescheduling the game which is the second Allegheny has had postponed this season because of the illness. Martinsburg and Allegheny had to call off their trash two weeks ago when both schools had their teams hard hit by the illness. That one has been reset for Friday, November 15, at Martinsburg.

WATER MAIN BREAK—A plug in the eight-inch water main on Union Street near the George Street intersection was dislodged this morning sending a geyser of water higher than the three-story buildings that line the street. A city truck was backed up over the geyser to prevent it from soaking in and damaging material in the warehouse seen in the background. Water Department spokesmen said an old-type plug, held in place by a large rock, was displaced by workers who were digging out to the main to install a water meter at the curb. Water service to the area was shut off for about three hours.

Store Cited Concerning Liquor Sale

The Cumberland Liquor Store Inc., 415 Henderson Avenue, has been cited by the Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners of Allegheny County to show cause why the license should not be suspended or revoked because of convictions on sales to a minor.

Cited today were Justice Grabenstein, Mary Emma Carolan and Margaret Schooley, who are listed as the license holders.

Last week in Allegheny County Circuit Court they were fined a total of $1,000 for the sale of wine to a minor on two different occasions.

There were two separate indictments involving a minor, Judge Morgan C. Harris handed down the fines.

The hearing before the liquor board will be held Tuesday, November 12, at 10 a. m.

In another case last week, involving the hiring of a minor who was a musician, against the Cadillac Liquor Store Inc., an appeal in the conviction and fine of $500 has been filed.

No action will be taken by the liquor board until the appeal is cleared in the Court of Appeals, a spokesman for the license commissioners said today.

The old game of trick or treat swings into full scale tonight as thousands of youngsters take to knocking on doors.

The youngsters pound on doors in bunches with hands out reaching. You might hear "Five in the crowd," and sometimes "We have 12."

Whatever the number is be prepared with plenty of candy, cookies and other treats, or maybe you will wake up tomorrow and find your windows soaped.

Last night door bells were ringing as late as midnight in some sections of Cumberland.

Last night the Luther Leagues of St. Paul's Lutheran Church conducted a drive to aid UNSEF and the youngsters netted $96.13.

Tonight children from other churches in Cumberland will be collecting for the drive.

Last night St. Paul's junior and intermediates canvassed the city, under the direction of Mrs. M. Monroe MacKenzie, Miss Virginia Lee Beall and Mr. and Mrs. James Smith.

Miss Beall was assisted by Mrs. Ralph Taylor, Mrs. Martin Sharp, Mrs. George Bennett, Mrs. John P. Sammel, Mrs. Albert Gormer and Mrs. Merle Zembower. A party was held following the collection.

The Intermediate and Senior Leagues also collected pennies and were feted at a party. Miss Judith Ritchey was in charge, and refreshments were served by Mrs. William Ritchey and Mrs. James Smith.

Jury Receives Equity Case Involving Alleged Slander

A $2,500 equity suit over alleged slander over "knocking down" on a 50-cent cab fare was heard this morning in Allegheny County Circuit Court before a jury.

Cecil C. Twigg is suing Frederick W. Jenkins, operator of the Astor Cab Company, for statements that the plaintiff was fired because he did not report a fare he collected.

Twigg maintained today that he had not reported all the fares he had taken in on June 29, 1936.

Had Two Passengers He testified that he took from the A&P Market on Greene Street Mrs. Pearl Bucy, 803 Ridgedale Avenue, and Mrs. Lillian Carpenter, 107 Wilmont Avenue, to their respective homes.

He said he took Mrs. Bucy to her residence first, and did not collect, assuming Mrs. Carpenter, his daughter, would pay for her. But upon arriving at the Wilmont Avenue destination, he said Mrs. Carpenter only paid him one 50-cent fare.

However, he admitted on cross examination by W. Earle Cobey, counsel for the defendant, that he did not call the dispatcher about leaving Mrs. Bucy at her home, nor did he list the ride on his manifest.

It was testified that Mrs. Carpenter had made the call from the market for the cab.

Willing To List Twigg did admit when confronted by the dispatcher about the ride he was willing to list it on the manifest, but the dispatcher, Eugene Bonner, Mt. Savage, said it was too late.

John M. Robb, Twigg's attorney, developed the fact that when the dispatcher notified Jenkins, Twigg was fired, and was told he was being discharged for dishonesty.

Robb asked Jenkins if he had prosecuted Twigg on a criminal charge. Jenkins replied that it was not the company's policy to do so in these cases.

The dispatcher, Bonner, who now works for another cab company here, testified that on two previous occasions he had caught Twigg "knocking down" and had allowed him to mark it down on the manifest, and also put it on the master sheet so the fare totals would balance.

Asked For Charges But on the third time, Bonner said he received a call from a woman about this particular ride, just after it had been made, and had asked for the correct charges.

When confronted about the two fares, and reporting only one, Bonner said Twigg admitted receiving it, and not listing it, and asked to have it made correct on his manifest.

But Bonner said he would not allow it and reported the incident to Jenkins, who after an investigation, discharged Twigg.

Twigg had claimed his ability to get a job was curtailed by Jenkins telling other persons that the plaintiff was discharged by reason of dishonesty.

Say They Paid Both Mrs. Bucy and her daughter testified that they had paid Twigg the two 50-cent fares. Mrs. Bucy, admitted under cross-examination by Robb that at an Employment Security Board hearing, over Twigg's unemployment benefits, she said she couldn't recall paying him because she did not connect Twigg with the driver on June 29, 1936, at that time.

William R. Carscaden, also counsel for the defendant, told the jury that under Maryland law the defense for slander charges is the truth, which the defense would attempt to prove.

The jury recessed at noon for lunch, with closing arguments scheduled this afternoon.

Lester Bolinger is foreman of the jury.

Given Suspended Term He was sentenced to the state penitentiary for a period of four years. This sentence was suspended and the petitioner paroled for a period of ten years.

On June 13, 1936 the petitioner was cited for violation of parole and on June 20, 1936 filed bond in the sum of $2,000 for a hearing at later date.

The hearing was set for December 7, 1936 and the petition was called, and not answering, motion was made that bond be forfeited.

On December 8, 1936 a bench warrant was issued for Carder.

On January 30, 1937 a supplemental citation for violation of parole was filed and on February 5, 1937 there was a hearing and a plea of guilty entered, whereupon the parole was stricken out and Carder was sentenced to the penitentiary for four years, starting as of December 28, 1936.

Carder contends that the four years suspended sentence given May 14, 1933 with a ten-year probation attached is double jeopardy. Carder also claims he should have been given credit for time which he served on probation.

Judge Harris quoted from a ruling in a similar case that Carder has not been deprived of any constitutional right.

Carder is currently serving a sentence in the state penitentiary.

Tte. R. D. Henline of the Maryland State Police, who investigated, said Garlitz was traveling on U. S. Route 219 two miles south of Keyser Ridge when the accident occurred at 7:15 p. m.

Reservoir Job Being Pushed

Water Commissioner William J. Edwards said all concrete repair work has been completed on the Fort Hill Reservoir.

He said the George Construction Company will proceed, as weather permits, with closing the joints between the concrete slabs with a bituminous crack filler.

Given good weather, all work should be completed in about 10 days, Edwards said.

Repairs on the Ridgedale reservoir are also in the final stages and will be completed soon by crews from the Lake Gordon iron plant.

Extensive repairs have been made to both of the storage basins, which had developed extensive leaks as a result of heaving during weather changes.

On December 8, 1936 a bench warrant was issued for Carder.

On January 30, 1937 a supplemental citation for violation of parole was filed and on February 5, 1937 there was a hearing and a plea of guilty entered, whereupon the parole was stricken out and Carder was sentenced to the penitentiary for four years, starting as of December 28, 1936.

Displaced Plug In Water Main Causes Geyser A spectacular geyser of water caused considerable damage to material in a Union Street warehouse this morning when Water Department workers dislodged a plug in the eight-inch water main near the George Street intersection.

City Commissioner William J. Edwards said water service in the area was shut off several hours until the necessary repairs could be made.

Considerable damage was caused to stock in a storeroom of the Builders Paint and Supply Company, in front of which the plug was displaced. The plug had been placed on the top side of the water main so that the geyser of water was aimed at the roof of the storeroom.

A city vehicle was driven over the stream of water to prevent further damage until the water could be shut off and repairs made.

City Employee Resigns Mrs. Mary Jane Stemple, a junior stenographer in the city auditor's office who has been on a leave of absence, submitted her resignation to the Mayor and Council yesterday, effective November 1.

FRANK W. BORGES

Frank Borges Retires From Luke Position

Frank A. Borges, assistant production manager at the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, retired today after having been a member of the plant's engineering department since 1919.

Borges, who observed his 65th birthday on October 21, was honored by his associates at a dinner Tuesday evening at the Cumberland Country Club.

Born in Brooklyn, N. Y., he went to work at the age of 15 as an office boy for the Lawyers Title Insurance and Trust Company in Brooklyn. Borges studied science at Cooper Union in New York City and was employed by the New York City Health Department for three years before joining the Bureau of Highways for the Borough of Queens in New York City.

After completing five years of employment with the Bureau of Highways, Borges joined the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company's Engineering Department in New York City. After serving in the Army Corps of Engineers, Lieutenant, Borges reported back to work in 1919 at the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company and requested assignment in one of the company's mills.

He was assigned to the engineering department at the Luke plant in that year. Borges was promoted to construction supervisor in 1921, and became construction and maintenance supervisor in 1929.

Borges was promoted to chief engineer at the Luke plant in 1931, and to assistant manager of production two years later. He played a large role in planning the company's present $50,000 expansion program at Luke, and was instrumental in the pulp mill expansion project completed several years ago.

Borges is married to the former Miss Kathryn Laughlin of Luke. They have two children, Dr. Francis J. Borges of Baltimore and Mrs. Catherine Sluga of Arlington, Va., and five grandchildren.

Jobs Abolished By Celanese The Celanese Corporation has announced the abolishment of the position of assistant to the plant manager at its numerous facilities in this country, and one of the persons affected by the policy change is Walter N. Hedrick, who held that position at the Amelle plant here.

Hedrick had been in charge of the local plant's operations from the retirement of R. Findley Thompson as plant manager until the arrival of William E. Crooks, new manager Tuesday.

Crooks said the abolishment of the position is in line with a Celanese Corporation plan to throw more responsibility onto department superintendents, and that the reorganization will take several weeks to effect.

Pittsburgher Held On Check Charge A Pittsburgh man is being held in the county jail on a fraudulent check charge and county officials said Pennsylvania authorities are forwarding detainees on the same charge as being installed as of ten as the old plugs are uncovered, Commissioner Edwards explained.

The force of the water, estimated at approximately 120 pounds per square inch, carried mud and stones above the three-story buildings that line Union Street in the area.

Considerable damage was caused to stock in a storeroom of the Builders Paint and Supply Company, in front of which the plug was displaced. The plug had been placed on the top side of the water main so that the geyser of water was aimed at the roof of the storeroom.

Eighty Invited To Kump Dinner

ELKINS, W. Va. (AP) — About 80 guests have been invited to a dinner tonight honoring former Gov. H. Guy Kump on his 80th birthday.

The Democratic chief executive held office in 1937-37 at a time when the State administration carried a heavy burden toward pulling West Virginia from financial troubles of a major depression.

Kump's son and daughter here, Atty. Cyrus S. Kump and Mrs. Donald Roberts, wife of a physician, have arranged tonight's dinner. Among those invited is former Gov. Homer A. Holt.

Farm motor trucks in the United States numbered less than 1,000 in 1910, but reached 2½ million by 1953.

Naval Men Hit Hard By Asian Flu

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Laboratory tests have shown that some of the influenza which swept the U.S. Naval Academy in an epidemic proportion this month was Asian flu.

Capt. John N. C. Gordon, medical officer for the Severn River Naval Command, said tests made at Andrews Air Force Base verified the presence of the Formosan strain of Asian flu.

Sixty per cent of the academy's 3,800 midshipmen were stricken this month, but the illness was mild for the most part.

The entire brigade had been inoculated against Asian flu.

The number of cases has tapered off sharply since a heavy outbreak around mid-October. Capt. Gordon said the 25 new cases reported yesterday were "a handful," compared with an incidence of 276 on Oct. 15, biggest day of the epidemic.

Old Veteran Leaves Money To Aged Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — An old veteran who spent his last 28 years in a soldiers home here has left $74,108 to a local home for the aged.

The request from Otto Schimann, 88-year-old Army veteran, who died last Sept. 23, went to the Little Sisters of the Poor Home for the Aged.

Atty. J. Bruce Sellison, who filed the will for probate yesterday, said Schimann was a naturalized immigrant from Switzerland who served in the Army between 1887 and 1910 and again in World War I.

Kellison said the estate represented a lifetime of careful savings, with no indication of investments other than savings bonds.

Reservoir Work About Completed

Repairs on the Ridgetop reservoir have been completed, according to Water Commissioner William J. Edwards, who said similar work on the Fort Hill reservoir are expected to take another two weeks.

The West Side reservoir was partially drained in order that the concrete on the upper portion could be replaced. Edwards stated. The concrete had deteriorated because of successive freezing and thawing over the years.

The concrete slabs at the Fort Hill reservoir have been installed, he continued, and all that remains to be done is the placing of approximately 15,000 feet of seaming between the slabs. This is expected to take about two more weeks, weather permitting, since the concrete must be dry before the seams can be placed.

Deacon Coach Sees Success By Mistakes

By The Associated Press
Coach Paul Amen, whose winless Wake Forest football team for the fourth straight week goes against a top Atlantic Coast Conference foe, is measuring this season's success by the rate of mistakes.

This week the hapless but game Demon Deacons meet 10th-ranked North Carolina State—following successive losses to Maryland, Duke and North Carolina. Those four opponents hold down the top of the ACC standings.

Work On Offense
State placed the emphasis on offense during its workout yesterday in a scrimmage with reserves. Wake Forest, meanwhile, concentrated on defense against State's multiple offense.

Elsewhere around the ACC yesterday:

Coach Ben Martin reported his Virginia Cavaliers "moving along on schedule" in preparing for VMI. The Cavaliers emphasized defense against what Martin called "one of the country's better organized backfields."

South Carolina went through a 90-minute scrimmage after a lecture from Coach Warren Giese on the excellence of Maryland's passing and defense. Giese also showed the Gamecocks films of Maryland games.

Duke 'Under Lights'
Duke worked under the lights with co-capt. Hal McElhenny watching from the sidelines. The Blue Devils' No. 1 fullback will be out of action for the Georgia Tech game, Coach Bill Murray said.

North Carolina also will be missing a starter in the Tennessee game. Coach Jim Talam said the center Ronnie Kees definitely is out because of a sinus infection. The Tar Heels worked on defense against the Tennessee single wing formation.

Coach Frank Howard reported that all but one of his Clemson Tigers returned to action after a bout with the flu. Howard said tackle Jim Padgett, "slow coming around," may miss the Rice game.

White-Breadhead Given Recognition

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)—A pair of quarterbacks, Clemson's sterling sophomore Harvey White and unbeat Duke's Bob Broadhead, were added today to the backfield check list of Associated Press Atlantic Coast Conference Regional All-America Football Board.

Six other backs tabbed in last week's first listing won "emphatic re-nomination" for additional (due efforts).

White, a 6-2, 200-pounder who entered Clemson with a glittering high school reputation established at Greenwood, S. C., came into his own with a masterful job in the climactic "Big Thursday" victory of Clemson over arch rival South Carolina.

Broadhead threw a touchdown pass and sneaked for another score in Duke's tie with North Carolina State.

Backs previously nominated, whose names were underlined this week, were North Carolina State's halfback pair of Dick Christy and Dick Hunter; Duke's halfbacks George Dutrow and Wray Carlton; Alex Hawkins, South Carolina halfback, and Jim Bakhtiar, Virginia fullback.

Bassler Captures Third PGA Title

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP)—Neither rain nor hard-to-shake Clare Emsery could stop Charlie Bassler in his quest for his third Middle Atlantic PGA golf championship.

The 37-year-old Bassler, who had won two previous Middle Atlantic titles in tournaments played in his hometown of Baltimore, won No. 3 here yesterday on the first hole of a sudden-death playoff with Emery.

Emery, playing out of the Washington Country Club in Arlington, Va., and Bassler finished the 36-hole medal play tournament with identical scores of 149—seven over par. They agreed on a playoff for top money of $125 and on the 19th hole, Bassler rammed home a par four while Emery needed a five.

Erdelatz Cites Notre Dame's Rating, Odds

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The relative rankings of Navy and Notre Dame and the odds on their football game Saturday are bothering Coach Eddie Erdelatz of the mid-dies today.

"I don't want to talk about Navy, let's talk about that great Notre Dame team," he told his weekly news conference.

"They're ranked fifth and we're nowhere. They ought to be 11 point favorites and they're only three."

Appears Nettle
Coach Erdelatz appeared nettled by recent press conjecture that Navy may be overrated as a topflight football team despite winning five of its six games. The caliber of its victims—Boston College, William & Mary, California, Georgia and Penn.—has been questioned.

"I didn't rate us before the season and now we're overrated," he snapped in a question for his opinion of Navy's progress since its opener.

"Then he added that personally 'I'm very pleased with its improvement.'"

Navy is ranked 16th with one loss in North Carolina while Notre Dame is fifth on four straight triumphs.

Coach Terry Brennan of Notre Dame disagreed with Erdelatz on the role of favorite for the game at South Bend.

"Without our injuries, I think it would be an even game," Brennan said in a telephone interview. "With them, I would think Navy would be the favorite."

Not At Physical Best
Brennan said his team is "changed up worse now than it has been at all. Navy probably is as good as any team we'll play and the thing that concerns me is we're not at our physical best."

Neither is Navy. First stringers fullback Dick Dugan and tackle Jim Martinez will be out and a couple of other reliable reserves are hurting.

There's no doubt that Coach Erdelatz considers Notre Dame the most crucial test so far regardless of its toughness on rankings or whether the schedule until now has been soft.

"Wait until after the Notre Dame game," he pleaded in answer to most questions. Among them were for an expression of his regard for quarterback Tom Forrestal and the switch back to tackle from center of Bob Reif-snyder because of the injury to Martinez.

He refused permission for a magazine writer to even talk with Forrestal who has completed 49 of 95 passes, six for touchdowns.

College Football Attendance Shows Decline At Mid-Season

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
College football attendance decreased in virtually every part of the country except the South and Southwest during the first half of the 1957 season.

But the overall change was so small it probably could be explained by a few schedules that put the more attractive games later in the season this year — or by uncertain alumni, who tossed a coin to decide whether or not they should go to the game on a threatening day.

Down 1.26 Per Cent
An Associated Press survey of September and October major college games showed today that 333 played this year drew 350,360 fewer spectators than 333 games by the same teams last season. On the basis of average attendance per game, that shows a decrease of 1.26 per cent—about 300 persons a game.

The Atlantic Coast, Southeastern, Big Eight, Southwest and Border Conferences all marked up gains, ranging from 8.2 per cent in the Southwest to 17.3 percent in the Atlantic Coast. The major Eastern Independent colleges also showed a slight gain—1.2 percent—due principally to the Army-Notre Dame game, which pulled some 96,000 spectators into the Philadelphia Municipal Stadium.

The larger independents scattered through other sections, whose totals are influenced by two big drawing cards—Notre Dame and Miami of Florida—experienced an over-all decline of 10.4 percent.

Miami Slips 6,100
At this stage of the 1956 season, Notre Dame had played four home games before capacity crowds averaging over 50,000. This year the Irish have played at home only twice, against Indiana and Pitt, drawing 112,801 in all. Miami's home game attendance slipped by about 5,400 for four games.

While the two big leagues of Southern football registered respectable attendance gains, the smaller Southern Conference suffered the biggest percentage of loss—19.3 percent.

The mighty Big Ten, where Michigan can play before 101,001 spectators and Ohio State regularly draws around 80,000 for its home games, wound up with a 6.6 percent decline the first half of the season. Attendance in the troubled Pacific Coast Conference dropped 6.1 percent and in the Skyline Conference 6.9 percent.

The schedules and some bad weather figured in these changes.

The attendance decline, if it continues to the end of the season, reverses the trend of the past few years. Final figures for college football last season showed an over-all gain of about three percent over 1955.

Lane's Triumph Helps Revive Old Fight Division

CHICAGO (AP)—Southpaw Kenny Lane, after a methodical 10-round victory over Orlando Zoluea, has a new distinction today.

The Muskegon, Mich., brawler was awarded the No. 1 contender's spot in the junior welterweight division by the Illinois Athletic Commission.

This 140-pound class has been dormant since 1935 but Commission Chairman Frank Gilmore says: "We've revived it with the hope of stirring up a world championship at this weight."

Foxy Doc Kearns, Lane's manager, is all for the idea but he will have difficulty convincing the National Boxing Assn. to recognize the junior welterweight division.

Lane won a unanimous decision over Zoluea in the bout at Chicago Stadium last night to register his 10th straight triumph and a total of 49 against five defeats in his career. He weighed 139 pounds, three more than his Cuban opponent.

There were no knockdowns and it was just a case of Lane wading in and spearing the speedily but ineffectively-punching Zoluea. Only 956 ringsiders turned out, paying a net gate of $1,107.

Mather Gives Up As Kansas Coach

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Chuck Mather has thrown in the towel on four dismal years as football coach at the University of Kansas.

"The pressure is simply too great," he said last night in announcing he and his staff will withdraw at the end of the season. "We have no apologies for the time we've been at Kansas."

Mather didn't amplify his reference to pressure. His Jayhawk teams have won only seven games last 26 and tied three. This season's record is 1-4-1.

It was Mather's first venture into college coaching. From 1957 to 1954 his high school teams in Ohio won 111, lost 18 and tied 5.

Mather's chief assistants are Paul Schaffer, Dave Putts, Dick Piskoly and Lauri Wartimainen. They came with him from Washington High School at Massillon, Ohio, Mather's previous post.

Howley Hurt, May Not Play Against Lions

By The Associated Press
West Virginia's football team starts getting down to cases this week in an effort to prove it can beat somebody of consequence outside the Southern Conference.

Coach Art Lewis' Mountaineers last week completed a rather sweep in the conference with a 3-0 record, but against non-conference opposition the ledger is a less-impressive 1-1-1, and Lewis is far from satisfied.

'Better Be Soon'
"The boys haven't proved to me yet that they're a real good football team," says Lewis. "I think we can have such a team—and if we're going to have one, it'd better be soon. Look what's ahead!"

What's ahead in the immediate future is Penn State, an arch-rival that will be met at State College, Pa., this Saturday. Then comes powerful Pitt, biggest rival on the card; Wake Forest and Syracuse.

Lewis today was fretting over the possible loss of his top line-man, guard Chuck Howley, for this week's tilt at Penn State. Howley suffered a face injury—perhaps a jaw fracture—in scrimmage Tuesday and wasn't present yesterday as the Mountaineers held their last long scrimmage in practice.

A happier problem for Lewis is that of choosing between Dick Longfellow and Mickey Trimarki for the starting quarterback assignment. Longfellow has the edge as a runner and has completed 17 passes, as many as Trimarki. But Trimarki, a three-year veteran, has gained more yards via passing, 57 per cent to Longfellow's 38. Longfellow worked with the first unit in yesterday's practice, but Lewis insists it's still a tossup as to who will start.

Maguire Under Knife

At The Citadel, star end Paul Maguire underwent an operation on the knee he hurt last week and now appears almost certainly lost for the rest of the season.

At VMI emphasis was placed once more on pass defense in a controlled scrimmage. The Key-dets then tried their own offense against a team using Virginia defenses.

Quarterback Jack Henze passed well to end Jack Kesack as George Washington, which meets Boston University tomorrow night, put stress on defense for a second straight day.

Coach Milt Brewer sought sharper blocking at William & Mary in a long session that included work on offense and defense.

Virginia Tech, trying to avoid further injuries, held a non-contact workout.

Tackles Pat Lamberti and Fred Wilt, guard Bob Buffman, center Dick Eaton and end Lew S. Clair sparked in Richmond's practice in which the Spiders labored on defense.

Howley, Sommer All-America Picks

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Five players representing as many colleges have been selected as the Southern Conference's top candidates for All-America at the midpoint of the 1957 football season.

Members of the conference All-America nominating board, surveying the first half of the campaign, gave the nod to:

Halfback Mike Sommer of George Washington, leading runner in the conference with 363 yards and its No. 1 scorer with 36 points.

Halfback Bobby Jordan of VMI, a versatile speedster who has run for 263 yards, scored five touchdowns, caught 11 passes for 154 yards and kicked 24 times for a striking 42.9-yard average.

Guard Chuck Howley of West Virginia, 220-pound mainstay of the Mountaineer line, renowned for his vicious tackling and expert blocking.

End Paul Maguire of The Citadel, leading pass-catcher in the conference with 20 receptions for 428 yards and two touchdowns.

Tackle Elliott Schnabach of William & Mary, who was out of football last year but returned for the 1957 season to prove the key man in the Indians' defense.

Linda Jenkins Equitation Champion Of Pennsylvania

Seventeen-year-old Linda Jenkins, who has been riding show horses since a child of eight, has been declared winner of the 1957 equitation championship in Pennsylvania. Miss Jenkins received her award Tuesday night at the annual high score dinner of the Western Pennsylvania Chapter of the Professional Horsemen's Association in the Penn-Sheraton Hotel, Pittsburgh.

The championship is based on an accumulation of points for various shows in the Keystone State during the year. Miss Jenkins, a senior at Oldfields School, near Baltimore, took part in only five of seven accredited shows but amassed enough points to take the championship.

She competed at the Sewickley Hunt Horse Show, Rolling Rock Hunt (Ligonier), Westmoreland Hunt (Greensburg), Hart's Run Junior Show (Bakerstown) and Professional Horsemen's Association, Uniontown.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Jenkins, Linda also won the Virginia Horsemen's Association medal for horsemanship at the Upperville show in June. In addition, she takes part in many events in the Baltimore area and competes against other schools as a member of the riding team at Oldfields. She is also interested in fox hunting.

Last year Miss Jenkins was reserve equitation champion (runner-up) in Pennsylvania and won the junior championship with her horse, "Curiosity." She competed in the junior championship this year with a mare, "False Alarm."

The Frostburg equestrienne had hoped to participate this month in the Pennsylvania National, regarded as the "World Series of horse shows," but was prevented from doing so due to the event conflicting with school activities. Last year she was fifth in the junior working hunter class of the big event at Harrisburg.

New Faces Don't Help Lakers Win

By The Associated Press
There are a lot of new faces in the Minneapolis Lakers dressing room these days, but the winning habit that used to go with the name hasn't shown up yet.

The Lakers, after their 115-96 loss to the Detroit Pistons last night, now hold down the National Basketball Assn.'s Western Division cellar with an 0-2 record. The game also marked the Pistons' first victory of the year.

Ex-Laker Walt Dukes put the Pistons out in front 8-7 in the first quarter and they kept increasing their lead as they went. At one point, late in the third period, the Lakers brought it down to 66-57.

Gene Shue and Bob Houbregs quickly added four points and the danger passed for the Pistons.

George Yardley with 28 points, Houbregs with 16 and Dukes with 14 topped the Pistons scorers.

Fall Racing To Open In Maryland Today

LAUREL, Md. (AP)—Fall racing in Maryland starts off today with a rush at Laurel where 19 juveniles will make a charge in the feature.

The field of 2-year-olds in the Maryland Futurity is a record for the track. The race for three quarters of a mile will be worth $9,816.50 to the winner out of a total awards of $13,325.50.

Laurel will be the racing scene for only 11 days with Pimlico to follow with 28.

Akins Ranked Second Now As Contender

NEW YORK (AP)—Virgil Akins of St. Louis today was listed second among contenders for the world welterweight crown vacated by middleweight champion Carmen Basilio.

Monthly ratings by Ring Magazine placed Akins behind Isaac Logart of Cuba, who had been the No. 2 contender behind former champ Tony DeMarco of Boston. Akins knocked out DeMarco in the 14th round of a scheduled 15-rounder Tuesday in Boston to bring about the shuffled ratings. DeMarco is third.

Only Elimination The Fight Was Recognized by the Massachusetts Boxing Commission as a title bout, but the National Boxing Assn., of which the Massachusetts body is a member, the European Federation, and the World Committee accepted it only as an elimination.

Akins, who has been sixth in the division, also won the magazine's Fighter of the Month award.

Hurricane Drops Again

There were some changes among the heavyweights. Tommy "Hurricane" Jackson of New York continued to slip. Idle the past month, Jackson was dropped from fourth to fifth. He was replaced by Roy Harris of Cut and Shoot, Tex., who won a 10-round decision over Willie Besmanoff of Germany. Mike De John of Syria, a first round knockout winner over Argentina's Alex Mitelt, moved into the eighth spot among the elite, while Mitelt dropped from seventh to 10th.

Everything For Winner, Tatum Belief

By JIMMY BRESLIN
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK—(NEA)—There are, if you coach a college football team, several ways to lose gracefully. The best of which, of course, is not to lose at all.

But this is about those who lose and how they take it and James Moore Tatum's reactions head the list.

A couple of hours after his North Carolina football team moped to a 21-7 defeat at Maryland, Big Jim Tatum, his face a dark scowl, was standing in the lobby of a Washington hotel. One of his players strolled up to him and began talking.

"Coach," the crew-cut kid said, "my parents are up here with me. I guess it's all right if I stay overnight and go to the Redskins game with them tomorrow. Then I'll drive back to school with them. That's fine, isn't it?"

Nothing For Losers
Tatum just looked at him. "We're all going back tonight," he said. "With me, everything is for the winners. Nothing is for the losers. Go get yourself on that plane."

And after Tatum lost the season's opener, a 7-0 crusher to North Carolina State, he observed, "Guess we got to start all over again."

A couple of listeners were shaken. At this time, Tatum had between 90 and 100 steak-eating players pounding the training table each evening. That costs money and one finance-minded person whispered: "You're not going to bring in a... WHOLE NEW TEAM?"

Tatum didn't hear him.

Chuck Mather of Kansas attacked the problem in a different way. The morning after Oklahoma beat him, 47-0, Mather sat in his house at Lawrence and mulled over what he had to tell alumni. He did it with a story.

"I feel," Coach Mather began, "a little like the young man who was sent into the game to stop an end who was catching passes all over the field. His coach said, 'John, for goodness sake go in there and watch that end.'"

"John left the bench, took a defensive position and on the next play the end again made a great maneuver and scored."

"The coach sent in another substitute and when John got back to the bench he asked, 'I thought I told you to go in there and watch that end.'"

"The young man answered, 'Coach, I did, and I want to tell you he is the best end I have ever seen play.'"

"I believe this tells the story of how I feel about Oklahoma," Mather concluded.

Indiana had lost to Ohio State, 56-0. The week before the Hoosiers lost to Iowa, 47-7. Notre Dame beat them, 26-0; Michigan State, 54-0. So on this Sunday a group of players came in to see Coach Bob Hicks and announced they couldn't take the verbal beating classmates were handing them.

"We're looked on as criminals," they said. Then they announced they were quitting.

But Hicks fielded a full squad at practice the Tuesday after it. This is a coach who had a chance to make the greatest explanation of a loss in coaching history, but he missed it. He was too busy talking his kids into sticking with a tough situation.

Wonder what Tatum would say if he were the Indiana coach? This, by the way, is a constant source of nightmares for him.

Big Jim tried to get the Indiana job last winter, you see.

Beware Of Goblins Magnificent Hoople Now Picking Upsets On Upsets

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
(In Upset Mood)

The dope bucket is going to be splashed around wildly this week. Especially, egad, since I prophesied a perfect card of upsets last week—they were all wrong but I did come hair-raisingly close to having Oklahoma toppled.

The autumn landscape may be littered with teams falling to the warning of your humble correspondent. Remember there are days when Mrs. Hoople's favorite son shines like a satellite.

Remember Illinois

I doubt if another forecaster the length and breadth of the land selected Illinois, a two-touchdown underdog, to clobber the glamorous Gophers. None but Hoople—har-rumph!

And, I must tender a warning to the LaSalle Explorers tonight. Wasn't it Ridgeley last year that gave the Green Wave one of its roughest games despite being a decided underdog? GAD! This, I know, is another year but the Hawks have had their wings clipped so often they may be ready to soar to new heights at last.

Let the hobgoblins be a sign of forewarning. Northwestern of Illinoisville has been traveling in fast company all season and its record may not reveal a true test of the strength of the down-state rival. The perfect mark of Fort Hill will be one that the invaders will shoot at and an upset would help make their season.

Frederick's Cadets have also marched back from a lethargic start and Allegany will have to take care when the Cadets invade town Saturday night. Remember there are upsets brewing and what time could be more opportune than the week the witches are in full flight.

Others Included

There are others. Maryland, which lost to Tennessee last week, will maul South Carolina. West Virginia will at last show its wares outside the Southern Conference and toy with Penn State. Auburn will be held to a tie by Florida.

Even Mighty Mysteria will have the scare of its life in going for its 70th straight triumph. Coach Frank Fiction has been drilling his team under wraps all week for their "big one" against Garment U.

Well and well and well. Go on with the forecast:

North Dakota Strong

GRAND FORKS, N. D. (AP)—The University of North Dakota basketball team under Coach Louis Bogan has five lettermen back. They are junior Bill Monson, 5-foot-5, junior Bob Hokansen, 6-foot-4 from Morris, Minn., Dennis Larson, Gene Asfet and Dick Vinger.

Notre Dame. But in the end, Monty Stirkles, a sophomore, kicked a field goal from what was considered an impossible distance.

Pittsburgh had Notre Dame well in hand. Then another sophomore, George Izo—a lad tipped as one to remember by Ohio schoolboy coaches—threw a long pass to the seasoned trackman, Aubrey Lewis who took the ball on his own 45 and sprinted to a touchdown.

Now it is Navy and I am not going to pick against this fired up Notre Dame outfit. My selection is the Irish, say by 20-14.

They are a group of inspired and large young men who not only figure to improve from day to day, but are doing it. They have the two richest assets a football team can have—momentum and enthusiasm. The line is tough and rough and will slug it out all afternoon. Bronko Nagurski is vastly improved. Capt. Ed Sullivan, center and linebacker, is mighty formidable. Ditto for Jimmy Schaaf, Stirkles and the ends, Dick Prendergast, Jim Royer and Gary Myers. Guard Al Euboyer is a blocker from Blockerville.

Williams Underrated

Quarterback Bob Williams is an underrated young man who works the option play darily and Izo could be even more efficient along this line. Fullback Nick Pietrosante runs hard and quick. Dick Lynch, Frank Reynolds and Lewis are bona-fide danger.

Huge Bob Reifsnyder and Tony Anthony, the tackles, anchor a strong Navy middle. Tony Stirkles and George Fritzinger are rugged guards. Tom Forrester is a quarterback who sets up running plays with passing. Neil Oldham is an excellent halfback and Fullback Ray Welborn is well backed up.

But the Midshipmen were shaded by North Carolina and were none too impressive in two other outings. They haven't bumped into the kind of opposition Notre Dame has hurdled, spryly handi-capped on occasion.

The Irish by now are used to whipping good teams in fierce competition. The Middies are not so we're riding along on the ND bandwagon—for one more week end at least.

And here are the other guesses for Saturday:

Redlegs Like Beef, Acquire Steve Bilko

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs apparently believe in replacing beef for beef. In the event huge Ted Kluszewski's back trouble prevents him from playing regularly next season, the Redlegs also have Steve Bilko, 230-pound first baseman, Bilko, 29, was purchased from Los Angeles where he hit 56 homers last season to lead the Pacific Coast League for the third straight time. He hit 37 in 1955 and 55 in 1956.

LITTLE SPORT

Ground-Pounding Backs Alter SW 'Aerial Circuses'

DALLAS—(INS)—The wide open "aerial circuses" that were the trademark of Southwest Conference football are being altered by an exceptional crop of ground-pounding fullbacks this season.

Changes from the pass-like-crazy era are being made by a new group of coaches and the coming of age of the Split-T attack. The emphasis has shifted to hard plunging backs.

And this year the Southwest has them in abundance, good for yardage every try.

Duke New Stars

Texas Christian, alma mater of passers extraordinary Davey O'Brien and Sammy Baugh and halfback Jim Swink, now stars squat Arvid (Hunky) Duke, who can back up a line or tear it to shreds with a butcher's efficiency.

Arkansas' Porkers, who once sprang loose for scores behind Olympic hurdler Clyde Scott, now have their touchdown punch in fullback Gerald Nesbitt, a compact package of grid talent.

Nesbitt, the nation's tenth leading scorer, rarely fails to make yardage — and gets the opportunity every time the Porkers need it most — or fails to make a blocking assignment setting up end sweeps for his fleet teammates.

Both Duke and Nesbitt haul their 195 pounds toward an opposing line with a halfback's quick-starting speed and a cannon's impact.

Hickman Paces Bears

Baylor's main yard producer and fullback, Larry Hickman, isn't so swift at the starting slot but once under way breaks holes with the finesse of a thirsty water buffalo.

The Bears, who counted on cat-quick Del Shomer last season, now call for the 210-pound junior in the clutch.

To fit their more varied attack, the Rice Owls have a "puny" fullback in lanky, 184-pound Ray Chilton. He is effective despite his lack of bulk.

A long-legged, rawboned yard-eater, Chilton bears the brunt of the Owls' off-tackle and up-the-middle attack and has yet to lose a yard this season.

The Owls, formerly renowned for will-of-the-wisp halfbacks, may have another All-American gany and Frederick, will be Farmington invading Romney (2-5) in the afternoon. Potomac State College is listed for a clash against Newport News Apprentice on the latter's gridiron. The Cal amounts have won two, lost two and played one tie.

End Bob Simms, 18, and his brother Gene Simms, a guard, 23-21. In this fall, it was the first time in 69 seasons that the Irish trailed by as much as 14 points and still came back to win.

Livestock Judging Honors
Copped By Petersburg Unit

MORGANTOWN—For the second consecutive year, a local team has earned the right to journey to Kansas City, Mo., in quest of national vo-ag livestock judging honors. University High's team beat out competition to make the same trip that a team from Morgantown High just completed. The vocational agriculture students from University High also placed in the top 10 in three other events.

But Petersburg copped the "Sweepstakes" trophy, winning three contests and compiling the highest composite score of the 36 teams entered. Kasson and Charles Town rated third and fourth in the overall scoring. University High came in fifth and Bruceton Mills sixth, the only area teams in the first ten Sweepstakes placings.

Awards were presented at a dinner in the Wesley Youth Center recently. Rev. Fred H. Clayton, vo-ag teacher at Kasson and a minister in Church of the Brethren, gave the invocation. Paul Sidcott, Weston vo-ag instructor, led group singing.

Dr. R. C. Butler, head of the West Virginia University agricultural education department, serving as toastmaster, introduced Acting Dean A. H. VanLandingham; Glenn Deagston, assistant university director for the experiment station; Dave Creel, extension photographer; Guy E. Cain and W. H. Wayman, assistant state supervisors of vocational agriculture, and John Peters, State FFA vice president from District 4 and a student at the University.

Dr. Collins Veatch, associate professor of agronomy, presented the awards in the farm crops contest to first place Kasson, second place Phillip and third place Spencer. Bruceton Mills placed eighth in the event.

Dr. G. C. Anderson, head of the animal husbandry department, listed the livestock judging winners as follows: University High, first; Parkersburg, second; Buffalo Valley, third. Morgantown fourth and Clay-Battelle seventh. Terry Grimes, University High team member, was the high-point individual livestock judge.

Dairy judging awards, presented by Dr. H. O. Henderson, went to Buckhannon-Upshur, Parkersburg, Bruceton Mills and Mason-town in that order. James Jackson of Morgantown and James Darby of Bruceton Mills were first and third, respectively, in the individual placings.

Farm shop honors went to Charles Town, Romney and Lewisburg with Aurora placing sixth. Aurora's Ronald Stenple was the second place individual in the event. Farm shop awards were presented by Kendall Elliott, an instructor in agricultural engineering.

Dr. K. C. Weslover, professor of horticulture, gave the horticulture awards to Petersburg, University High and Kasson.

Plant pathology awards were presented by Dr. M. E. Gallegly to Petersburg, Charles Town and Kasson. University High's team rated eighth.

The poultry judging event also went to Petersburg, with Troy and Guyan Valley second and third. Mason-town captured eighth and Bruceton Mills placed tenth.

College Club
Begins Study
Of Anglicans

FROSTBURG—The Canterbury Club of Frostburg State Teachers College is studying the history of the Church of England and the Episcopal Church in the United States under the direction of Rev. H. Martin P. Davidson, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church. The club is made up of Episcopal students attending the college.

The Canterbury Club is the National Association of Episcopal students to be found on almost every college campus in the United States. Students at State Teachers College who are Episcopalians and any others who are interested in the Episcopal Church meet on Sunday evenings at the rectory for the lecture and discussion led by Rev. Davidson. Following the study hour, the group conducts a social period with refreshments served by Miss Gail Davis and her committee.

The first period studied by the Canterbury Club embraced the history of the English Church from the beginning in Britain until the Reformation. The second discussion was focused on the Reformation dominated by Henry the Eighth.

The author of "Good Christian Men," published in 1940, Rev. Davidson is qualified to deal with the subject being discussed by the students of the college. A royal producing volume, "Good Christian Men" contains biographical sketches which are used to trace and document church history.

The present rector of St. John's came to Frostburg from St. James Church, Princeton, N. J., where he was assistant rector for six years. Previous to this he was chaplain at St. George's School for Boys, Newport, Rhode Island. Known as "Dean of Chaplains" in New England, Rev. Davidson gave particular attention to his duties as director of religious education.

Members of the local branch of the Canterbury Clubs are: Norman Hazard, president; Nancy Parker, recording secretary; Allen Stemple, treasurer; Arthur Hugglesstone, program chairman; Gail Davis, social chairman; Miss Dorothy Stone White and John G. Fischer, faculty advisors.

Provision was made by the association for dissemination of information on availability of scholarships. It was also voted to make the financial secretary of the college the permanent treasurer for the scholarship fund.

Parents Day Program Set
Nov. 9 At Potomac State

KEYSER—Parents Day on Saturday, November 9, will find the mothers and fathers of Potomac State students on the campus as guests of the college. The day has been set aside to permit parents to visit the various buildings, and meet instructors and members of the administration.

Invitations have been mailed to parents of all regularly enrolled students on behalf of the administration, the faculty and the student body, requesting their presence for open house, luncheon and attendance at the Potomac State-Fairmont College football game.

This year's program is an extension of a plan for Parents Day originated by Coach Dana G. Lough. For each of the past two years Lough has invited parents of the football team to the campus and has had a program of activities of interest to them.

Classes on Parents Day will be shortened so that the morning session will end at 11. From 11 a. m. to 12:15 p. m. all members of the faculty will remain in their classrooms. During this "open house" period students may accompany their parents on a general tour of the campus buildings and grounds. Faculty members and those in administrative positions will then be available to parents.

Following the open house period, parents will only go to the Science Hall where they will be guests of the college at lunch which is to be served in the assembly room at 12:15.

The football game will get underway at 2 with a half-time program being arranged by the Student Council. Music will be furnished by the ROTC band and the band from Keyser High School.

The committee which met with President E. E. Church to make arrangements for Parents Day included the following faculty members: Miss Margaret E. Rafter, Mrs. Dana G. Lough, Mrs. Elizabeth Hanlin, Dr. Elizabeth A. Atwater, Alan H. Paine and David G. Nuzum.

Students on the committee included David Satterfield, Edward J. Williams, Wilma Shields, Harold Wimer, Rocco Palumbo, Jerry Wilson, Krista Leatherman and Mary Ann Leyland.

Mrs. John Stanhagen, Miss Irene Brown and students of the secretarial science department were in charge of invitations. The Circle K Club will handle registration and provide maps of the campus. The Student Council will make arrangements for parking facilities.

Members of the Women's Association, directed by Miss Margaret E. Rafter, will conduct a sale of mums to be provided for visiting mothers. The Agriculture Club and the Home Economics Club will arrange for the sale of refreshments during the football game. The Freshman Class, under the direction of President Palumbo, will conduct a general campus cleanup campaign before November 9.

Earl Johnson Elected Head Of Local 26

Defeats A. C. Lewis In Runoff Election By Rubberworkers

A. Earl Johnson yesterday afternoon was declared president of Local 26, Rubber Workers Union, as an election committee completed counting ballots cast in a runoff election.

Johnson, a former president and currently vice president, defeated Alva C. Lewis in the balloting. Both are employed in the curing room of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Also elected to two-year terms in the runoff voting were Clyde E. O'Baker, for the policy committee post, and Nelson Brant, W. W. Jewel and Robert Swanner as members of a seven-member executive board.

A total of 1,017 ballots were counted in the contest and three were void.

Some 1,750 hourly paid workers at the Kelly plant were eligible to take part in the election held Tuesday in the conference room of the Kelly plant.

The results of the runoff were announced by Leo Barkman, secretary for the committee headed by Francis Finn.

The new officers will be installed at a ceremony planned November 16 at 7:30 p. m.

Elected in the first balloting October 17 were Charles Little, vice president; William Sheetz, secretary; Joseph V. Burke, treasurer; Ralph C. Beard, A. J. Jenkins, R. P. Muir and Clyde O'Baker, executive board, and Lawrence Jenkins, James Green and Dirk Vandenberg, trustees.

FEATHER FEATURE — Albert R. Arviso, a Navajo student at the Indian school in Albuquerque, N. M., models his Kiowa-type costume. The Indians of the Southwest have been in need of fancy feathers for use during their ceremonial dances ever since the government cut off their normal supply by banning the import of parrot feathers from Mexico in 1946. Since then, the Washington, D. C. Zoo has been saving the plumes of shedding birds and shipping them to Indians.

Flu Delaying Completion CUF Work

Lewis J. Ort, general chairman of the County United Fund, said that workers cannot stop yet because the job is not finished even though the drive is over the top.

Ort explained many of the workers are victims of the flu-type illness that is going around and there are still many calls to be made by the various teams.

He also added that initial reports are to be made by the chairman of Mt. Savage, Clarysville, Ellerslie, Flintstone, Shaft and Cresaptown.

Officials at the campaign headquarters in the County Building on Union Street said the staff will continue receiving reports there until Friday, November 8, and auditors will continue making daily tabulations.

The headquarters also announced that any chairman, captain or individual who missed the victory dinner and did not receive his engraved plaque or Oscar may pick it up at the Union Street office.

Earl K. Hess, chairman of the Keyser division, said yesterday the Piedmont Foundry pledged $1,000 to the Golden Gifts unit of that town. He also announced that school teachers in Mineral County will be contacted.

Officials of the drive said the record-breaking total of $316,517 which was reported at Tuesday night's victory dinner continues to grow and $320,000 is expected to be reached today.

School Lab Facilities In County Top Average

Allegheny County public schools' lab facilities apparently are well above the national average in the matter of laboratory equipment, according to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster.

Webster emphasized that but not all class members participate in laboratory work in this connection. The nationwide study just published emphasizes that the Soviet state of science teaching in elementary and high schools, just published in the November issue of Popular Science Monthly, asserts that one out of every four high schools teaches chemistry and physics without a laboratory.

The study also disclosed that only about 40 per cent of ninth-grade general science courses include lab work.

Webster said Allegheny County does not provide a dual lab work for its pupils in seventh, eighth and ninth grades. However, there are demonstration tables and the teacher year.

Mexico Will Buy Corn From U.S.A. — MEXICO CITY — The Government of Mexico signed an agreement yesterday with the United States to purchase 500,000 tons of corn. The payment of $28,200,000 will be made in pesos over an extended period. The purchase is expected to cover the amount of Mexico's corn shortage this year.

Rizer Cites Unique School Areas

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer yesterday outlined three specific areas in which the Maryland public school system is unique in leading a discussion among a group of county teachers enrolled in a first-year session of the Institute of Maryland Public Affairs.

Joseph Byrnes, a teacher at Pennsylvania Avenue School is group leader for this IMPA unit of 26 teachers. Charles E. Watermann was chairman of arrangements for yesterday's discussion.

The first manner in which Maryland's public school system is most unusual is in the matter of age. Mr. Rizer said that when Maryland's public school system was organized in 1867, 90 years ago, it was one of the first in the United States.

Maryland's school system is unique in its equalization fund which assures that the counties with limited financial resources will have adequate educational facilities. The retirement system for public school teachers also was a trail blazer and has been copied in many other states, the assistant superintendent added. without major changes and levying the necessary taxes to insure public school affairs also has greater authority than most other counties. The county commission-ers in each county are faced with the legal responsibility of meeting the county school budget cards tossed in the air.

Annie Oakley, the sharpshooter, could perforate by pistol shots the spots on a handful of playing cards tossed in the air.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Editor's Note: Her love unrequited, woman asks: How go on?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am in love with a man who claims to love me, but he doesn't want to be married and consequently withholds from me practically all affection. I suppose a psychiatrist would say I am frustrated; maybe I am. It just happens that I am a perfectly normal woman with high moral standards and I certainly don't want an illicit relationship or anything similar. But I crave affection and understanding and I don't know why I can't have it—when I date this man exclusively and am true to him in every way.

In Her Despair, Suicide Beckons

I've tried talking to Joe, but he shuns conversation of a personal nature. When he wants a confidante, he confides in a close friend, not me—and here I am, simply perishing to be close to him and share his problems. There's nothing worse than being unloved and unwanted—it's like living in the desert, looking at a refuge. Life is becoming a drab and hopeless, instead of the beautiful adventure it once was. I am losing all hope of having my dreams come true, and I just can't take it. Why do some of us have to be left out?

This Isn't Love; It's A Sickness

DEAR E. N.: This isn't love; it is a fixated predilection for mistreatment, in your emotional experience. You are hypnotized by Joe's negativism, not by his humane potentials (if any), as you struggle to spark a real relationship (you think).

The seeds of defeat are partially within yourself; but also they are inherent in the impossibility that you've attempted here. Namely, to evoke outgoing love-interest from a man who simply hasn't got such fellowship to give a woman; and who therefore shuns and rejects your avid desire to get close to him.

Would a psychiatrist say you are frustrated? He might, but I think he would also suggest that you are compulsively attracted to lost causes in the field of romance.

And that you are much in the dark about the significance of your emotional drives.

You are probably much less loving toward life and people, and Joe, than you suppose—with much less moral passion for the real Joe than you've imagined, as you brood in your desert of loneliness (a recluse from life).

It just happens that I am haunted by hopes of happiness with a sidekick who looks like Joe.

Cue To Action; Better Take It

The inside truth, I suspect, is that you want Joe, neurotically, mainly because he sidesteps you; that you wouldn't be so aggressively mad for him if he had the normalcy to rejoice in feminine adulation and interest, with some degrees of real appreciation and warm responsiveness. Indeed if he were the trouble-maker, or self-sharing sort, in his dates with you, you'd probably have rated him a trial and a bore from the start—and turned elsewhere in search of heartbreak material.

You speak of losing all hope of dreams coming true. Well, perhaps it's time to abandon dreams and come to terms with reality—by taking firm hold of opportunities for sharing a bit of real life, with real people, today.

An emotionally healthy young woman, adequately oriented to reality, wouldn't cling to a dream as you cling to Joe. She would act on the truism that, as one door is closed to us, in life, it signifies that another is opening to better things—if we have the sense to find it.

It is our move to turn away from the closed door, and, by faith with works, take over the guidance always implicit in our circumstances, if we are willing to accept our cue. As of now, you're sitting outside the closed door, beating; instead of shaking the dust of disappointment from your feet, and heading back into the quest for fulfillment.—M. H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write to her in care of The Evening Times.

Your Horoscope

Look to the stars in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, November 1, 1957:

MARCH 21 to APRIL 20 (Aries) — The Moon, Saturn and other planets in fine array. Vigorous, ambitious, and wholehearted efforts especially in your efforts should not fail. Be ambitious.

APRIL 21 to MAY 21 (Taurus) — Invigorating and beneficent influences. Practical and artistic matters equally favored. Difficult situations should be resolved quickly, too. Achieve.

MAY 22 to JUNE 21 (Gemini) — This day's influences are generally favorable and should encourage you to put forth extra effort in order to accomplish to the best of your ability. Most endeavors sponsored.

JUNE 22 to JULY 21 (Cancer) — Fine Moon and Venus aspects. A day when your skill and artistry will count heavily. Carpenters, mechanics, workers especially favored, also professions.

JULY 22 to AUGUST 21 (Leo) — Fine observations of You Sun, the Moon, and Neptune give you a very big day's work; perhaps make some new friends, some new improvements. Many advantages.

AUGUST 22 to SEPTEMBER 21 (Virgo) — There are opportunities all from both new and old sources. Keep eyes alert, and don't fail.

SEPTEMBER 22 to OCTOBER 21 (Libra) — A grand day for the artistic professions. Agriculture and mining tasks before starting the weekend. Have some fun, too.

OCTOBER 22 to NOVEMBER 21 (Scorpio) — Aspects may be partly favorable but they could also inspire you to use better methods. Summary: be extra careful. The stars say that other smart folks are striving for the same things you are.

NOVEMBER 22 to DECEMBER 21 (Sagittarius) — Make use of your intelligence, reasoning powers, sense of fairness and tolerance of others now. These aspects are important to your prestige and need to be easy, your plans.

DECEMBER 22 to JANUARY 21 (Capricorn) — Listen well, but also use your own good judgment. Remember that if you don't have sufficient knowledge, you cannot make wise decisions.

JANUARY 22 to FEBRUARY 21 (Aquarius) — They are predicting to take now. Keep actively busy and do not postpone urgent tasks until too late. In fact, they are rushing. Some fine advantages; be alert.

FEBRUARY 22 to MARCH 21 (Pisces) — A grand day in which to capitalize on your special talents. Don't put off tasks because they are difficult. They will be even more difficult later.

YOU BORN TODAY have a generous, often meditative disposition; are melting and defeating strong opposition; are willing to meet another halfway but won't compromise on fine principles or the truth. Extraordinary and artistic as well as practical, you can make a great deal of life's many diversions and tasks. Don't slip or flatter. Keep improving in your field of endeavor; listen to and heed good advice.

Birthdate: Antonio Canova, famed Italian sculptor.

East Is Too Happy To Win

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Life master Ronald Wolf writes, "We are planning to run regular duplicate games in Mattoon in the near future. Do you think a population of 18,000 will produce enough enthusiasts?"

Ronald included a hand from this summer's nationals about which he states, "I bid too much but I usually do and the six diamond contract wasn't too bad."

"West opened the pack of clubs. East took his ace and played the queen. I was in the lead with the king and drew trump. Three rounds of hearts came next and I had a count on the East hand. He had started with seven clubs (West would have opened low from three to the jack), one heart and three diamonds. Hence, he held exactly two spades.

"Percentage would favor a spade finesse against West but East had given the decided impression of a man who was happy throughout the whole play. West, on the other hand, looked and acted worried and had had great difficulty finding a discard on the third trump lead. He had finally pulled out a heart when he had hearts coming out of his ears and could have spared one handily.

"While there was nothing unethical in West's play I still decided that he was trying to give me the impression of strength and that if he held that queen of spades he would not have been so worried. Hence, I played dummy's ace and king of spades and dropped East's queen."

Here's hoping that Ronald has as much success with his Mattoon duplicates as he had with this slam.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: South West North East
1♥ Pass 1A Pass
1NT Pass 3NT Double
Pass Pass Pass
You, West, hold:
A76♥K1087♦Q1053♣J107
What do you lead?
A—The seven of spades. On this bidding the double calls for a lead of dummy's bid suit and you should follow your partner's demand.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You hold the same hand. North has gone to four hearts after your partner's double of three no-trump was passed around to him. Everyone passes to you. What do you do?

Unemployment Up In Maryland

BALTIMORE (AP) — Unemployment in Maryland last month showed an increase over September of 1956, but not by as much as the compensation benefit payments would seem to indicate.

Robert B. Kimble, director of the Department of Employment Security, said benefits paid last month were 134 per cent higher than those a year ago.

A total of $1,959,528 in State benefits was paid to 66,553 persons last month as compared to $887,239 for 33,918 persons a year ago.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

The Eastern Shore Public Service Co. yesterday started cutting away other parts of the 400-year-old tree which was declared dead last September.

A bronze plaque placed on the tree by the Daughters of the American Revolution will remain on the stump. The plaque commemorates a treaty between the Choptank Indians and the first settlers of the Church Creek area when Dorchester was a proprietary province.

The relationship of the church and juvenile court was discussed at a meeting of the Emmanuel Methodist Men last night.

Juvenile Magistrate Fred H. Anderson discussed the operation of Juvenile Court and how the court is assisted by the churches.

Magistrate Anderson outlined the work and problems of the court in dealing with juvenile and domestic problems and said numerous area clergymen and church laymen, acting as friends of the court, have helped solve many problems and have given wise counsel and assistance to many problem people.

The men's club of the church held its annual election with Calvin Carder succeeding R. C. Marker as president. William B. Orndorff was elected vice president; Harold Malone, secretary; and Alfred Weltman, treasurer.

Named to the executive committee of Emmanuel Methodist Men are R. C. Marker, Woodrow Malone and William Kreiger.
